

South Bloomfield, Ashville Hold Joint Meeting

A resolution of cooperation, mirroring one enacted by Pickaway County Commissioners several weeks ago, was passed by Ashville and South Bloomfield officials Monday night in a joint session of the two village councils.

The resolution will enable the three groups to work together to prepare a plan of study for the possible construction of waste water treatment facilities to both villages and unincorporated land in the area including Millport.

Police Chief Hired For New Holland

Frank Wood, former police chief of New Holland, was hired by village council Monday to take over his former position on a part-time basis.

Village council, which last month failed to hire a police chief, voted unanimously to accept Wood's services after meeting with Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Fayette County Sheriff Don Thompson.

The chief lawmen in each county represented by the corporate limits of the village expressed concern over the lack of law enforcement in New Holland. The village had been without police services since the first of the year.

Council voted to hire Wood after Sheriff Radcliff quoted costs of stationing a deputy sheriff in the village to provide police services.

Council agreed to allow village little league officials to construct another baseball diamond in the village park pending concurrence of the Park Board.

The village has one ball diamond in the park. Construction is expected to begin in several months.

The possibility of including tennis courts in the park was referred to the Park Board for further study.

Council signed a cooperative agreement with the Ohio Department of Highways for painting of center lines under the Federal Highway Act of 1973 and discussed the possibility of upgrading the traffic light on Route 22 to conform with federal specifications which requires a light per lane of traffic.

Council learned that application for a Department of Housing and Urban Development community block grant for improvements in the water system and town hall and for some phases of the proposed sewer system had been submitted.

Final application for the proposed $1.4 million sewage treatment plant is being considered by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency. Council exercised its option to purchase 12 acres of land near the village as a site for the proposed plant, contingent on acquisition of the 75 per cent grant from the EPA.

Mayor Ed Summers appointed a building committee to discuss fees charged under the current building code, and is considering the names of several people to serve as building inspector.

In other business, council raised wages of the fire department to $3 per run and $1 per hour. The old fee was $2 for each fire call.

42 YEARS OF SERVICE — Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff presented the Rev. Earl W. Seitz with a commendation award from the Buckeye State Sheriff's Association and Pickaway County Sheriff's Department for his 42 years of ministering and counseling with the prisoners who have been incarcerated in the county jail. The 70-year-old minister began visiting the prisoners in 1933 under former Sheriff Charles Radcliff and has visited them on a continuous basis. He was assisted on a part-time basis by various ministers and in recent years has been accompanied by members of Gideon's International. According to his wife, Regina, "His Sundays are given to the church." Seitz was ordained in the Churches of Christ in Christian Union before transferring to People's Faith Chapel in 1974. In attendance for the presentation, from the left, were Charles Radcliff, former Pickaway County Sheriff; Mrs. Regina Seitz, the Rev. Seitz and Sheriff Radcliff. Gideons Charles Wellman and Willard England were also on hand to present Rev. Seitz with a certificate for 10 Bibles to be distributed in honor of Rev. Seitz and the occasion.

The study, which must be a joint venture, is the first step in the acquisition of Environmental Protection Agency monies for construction and engineering costs.

It was decided that South Bloomfield would be the applicant for the grant.

ASHVILLE

Prior to Monday's meeting, councilmen held a public hearing to gather citizen input on possible uses for federal monies available under a Department of Housing and Urban Development Community Block Grant.

Further hearings are scheduled in special session 7:30 p.m. tonight in the village municipal building. Notice of the meetings were posted on the five village bulletin boards.

Council, by resolution, agreed to place a renewal of the 1/2 mill tax for street improvement and maintenance on the June 8 ballot.

The proposed tax would be for five years.

In other business, council concurred with Mayor Max Cormany's appointment of Dale Kuhlwein to serve as a member of the Board of Appeals.

Council met with solicitor Leo Hall, who explained ramifications of the Sunshine Law to Don Flierl, of the Planning and Zoning Commission, Kuhlwein, representing the Board of Appeals; and E. W. Seeds of the Board of Public Affairs.

A resolution authorizing the mayor and council president to sign applications for federal grant for sewage treatment work and storm sewer improvements was passed.

Council also read a letter from Pickaway County Treasurer Robert Wood wherein he asked the State Board of Appeals for an extension to March 20 for payment of real estate taxes and assessments.

Chester Gloyd met with councilmen to discuss the 25-foot minimum exit and entrance requirements on his land on Main St. after council learned that action taken in last month's meeting with regard to the problem was not binding.

In another vote, permission for the variance was granted by a 4-1 tally. Council will again meet Feb. 16 at 7 p.m.

Council president Nolo Gulick presided in the absence of Mayor Cormany. Council members present were Marvin Hicks, Richard Cook, (Continued on Page 14)

Rhodes Seeks To Remap To Outflank Democrats

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes hit Democratic majority lawmakers returning from weekend recess with a plan to upset what he claims are their illegal election districts.

Rhodes announced late Monday he is putting into motion Feb. 9 the machinery to have the present reapportionment plan declared in violation of the Ohio Constitution even though it has been in use with a federal court's blessing since 1972.

He said he plans to convene later this month the state's apportionment board, controlled 3-2 by Republicans, in a bid to free state officials from a federal court injunction. The injunction blocked Republican challenges to the existing plan devised by Democrats under former Gov. John J. Gilligan in 1971.

The Rhodes scheme is complex and involves a number of imponderables, but if successful could result in the eventual toppling of Democratic majorities and in giving Rhodes a Republican House and Senate such as those he enjoyed while governor from 1963-1971.

Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, immediately charged Rhodes with playing politics in an election year which has found Republicans wanting for campaign issues. "It's a political trick," said Ocasek, emphatically taking issue with the governor's claim that the present districts are unconstitutional.

"I'm not saying what is constitutional or unconstitutional, and Jim Rhodes isn't saying what is constitutional or unconstitutional," said the Senate leader. But he added that "reapportionment (normally done every 10 years following the federal census) has been done until 1981. He (Rhodes) is just trying to upset the apple cart."

Democrats now control the Senate 21-12 and the House 59-40.

Specifically, Rhodes charged that the Democratic plan ignores state constitutional requirements for legislative districts to be compact and contiguous. He also asserted that it violates other sections requiring district populations to be figured on the basis of local political subdivisions—counties, municipalities, and townships.

John M. McElroy, former executive assistant to Rhodes who serves as his federal revenuesharing liaison, said Democrats used precincts instead of local subdivisions to come up with districts favorable to their party although they ran "all over Hell's acre and back."

McElroy, who was instrumental in filing the early challenges of the Democratic plan, but said he no longer is involved, told a newsman, "You can't determine population by precinct, you only can tell how many people voted."

Although there have been rumors for the past several months that Rhodes may seek to revive the apportionment issue, Monday's statement was the first confirmation of it.

As governor, Rhodes serves on the five-member apportionment board along with GOP Secretary of State Ted W. Brown and Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson, a Democrat. Rounding out the membership are two members of

He is a member of the National Funeral Directors and the Ohio State Funeral Directors Association and has been associated with his father for the last eight years at the Mader Funeral Home.

Ms. Huffer Appointed To Council

Trudy L. Huffer was appointed by Darbyville Mayor Marietta Knece to fill a vacancy on village council in the Monday meeting.

Mrs. Huffer will join councilwomen Sarah Ann Bucy, Rosanette Perkins, Rosemary Leach, Ruth Ann Massingale, and Naomi Griffith on the all-female village government.

Clerk of council is Manelia Schatz.

In other business, council voted 4-2 to clean snow from sidewalks on village streets, adopted the Sunshine Law, and voted to allow two newly-elected councilwomen to attend the Municipal League Seminar in Columbus.

Mayor Knece also told council that the 35 miles an hour speed limit in the village would be strictly enforced by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

At the March 1 meeting, council will discuss plans for the village sesquicentennial celebration which is planned this summer.

Weather

Increasing cloudiness tonight, low 20-25. Cloudy and a chance of light snow or rain Wednesday. High, in 30s. Chance of precipitation, 20 per cent tonight and 40 per cent Wednesday. Temperatures Monday were: high, 17; low, 10.

Williamsport Zoning Law Passes; Mayor Breaks Tie

Williamsport may have acquired its first zoning laws in the history of the village Monday when members of council passed a contested and much-discussed zoning ordinance.

The contested ordinance was passed after third reading. A 30-day time period is required before the ordinance can become law.

Village Mayor Paul Long was forced to cast the tie-breaking vote favoring adoption of the ordinance.

Councilmen Robert Metzger, John Reynolds, and Harman Lemming were in favor of the ordinance, according to voice vote, while Gene Smith, Lonzie Rigsby, and Wilson Thomas opposed its adoption.

Council did take steps to enforce the law, however. Mayor Long asked persons interested in serving on the zoning board to contact him. The village will need a zoning inspector and five board members.

In other action, council appointed three men to serve on the Williamsport Volunteer Fire Department. They are Jerry Yates, David Ratliff, and Randy Spangler. Two men apparently resigned from the unit.

Council also passed a resolution adopting the Sunshine Law, and accepted the resignation of street commissioner Joe Finnigan.

South Bloomfield, Ashville Hold Joint Meeting

Moynihan Resigns With Senate Seat Race Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Daniel
Patrick Moynihan will resume teaching at Harvard but will keep an eye on a Senate seat from New York when he leaves his post as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations at the end of this month.

The flamboyant, blunt-spoken diplomat made no mention of any friction between himself and President
Ford or Secretary of State Henry A.
Kissinger when his resignation was announced Monday.

But there were reports that Moynihan blamed Kissinger for his departure, saying Kissinger undercut him in private while supporting him in public. And top U.S. officials, speaking privately, made it clear they considered Moynihan a cross to bear because of his outspoken and occasionally caustic statements about world affairs during his 6 1/2 months at the U.N.

When he was asked Monday about his relationship with Kissinger, Moynihan said, "We are old friends. I have been his ambassador as well as the President's in carrying out his policies."

One reporter asked if he had jumped or was pushed. He replied, "I didn't necessarily jump. I certainly wasn't pushed."

Moynihan's departure had been long-rumored but its timing came as a mild surprise because his latest flap over alleged lack of support from the Ford administration came only last week and ended with a White House meeting between Moynihan and the President and public statements of support and confidence from Ford and Kissinger.

At Harvard University, Harvey
Mansfield, chairman of the government department, said Moynihan, 49, will teach two seminars on Thursdays and Fridays, starting next week. The seminar topics are "Ideology in American Foreign Policy" and

"Ethnicity in Politics."

Mansfield said Moynihan will be able to commute to Cambridge for his teaching chores while completing his last month at the U.N. as president of the Security Council, a position rotated among member nations.

At the same time, there were signs of growing political pressure for Moynihan to seek the Democratic nomination for this fall's New York senatorial race.

Democrats reported pondering a try for the Democratic nomination to run against Sen. James L. Buckley, R-Con-N.Y., include Rep. Bella Abzug, D.N.Y., Bess Myerson, former consumer affairs official for New York City, and former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

Last November, Moynihan denied he would run for U.S. senator by quitting his U.N. job to do so, saying he "would consider it dishonorable to leave this post and run for any office."

When a reporter told Moynihan on Monday that a lot of Democrats were talking about his candidacy, Moynihan replied, "I'm not."

However, he also said, "I assume I'll be back in government one way or another someday. I'm going back to teaching now." Would he accept the Senate nomination if offered? "I'd have to think about that long and hard," he replied.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey, the state's top-ranking Democrat, reportedly is warmly disposed to a Moynihan candidacy. One Carey insider said Moynihan "would be a strong candidate" in the Senate race.

Property Tax Bill Approval Expected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sponsors predicted approval today of a property tax bill designed in part to ease discontent among Ohio homeowners whose liabilities skyrocketed this year as a result of inflated property values.

Rep. John E. Johnson, D-68 Orrville, and others had their bill up for a vote in the House as representatives embarked on its fifth week of this year's session. The Senate returned from weekend recess Monday night for floor action on two comparatively routine measures.

In other developments, the Senate Rules Committee agreed to bring to the floor for a confirmation vote 28 appointments by the governor to various administration positions.
Some are cabinet members Rhodes charged the Senate has been holding hostage for political reasons.

All but one was voted out of the committee with a recommendation for favorable floor action. It was that of former State Sen. and ex-U.S. Rep.
Walter Powell of Fairfield as a consumer member of the Ohio State Medical Board. His nomination alone was left to the fate of a Senate floor vote. Powell, a Republican, has been under attack from labor groups.

Johnson's tax bill, voted out of the House Ways and Means Committee last week with bipartisan support, would give homeowners credit on their 1977 tax bills for inflationary increases in their property values during the current tax year. It would do nothing to reduce taxes of homeowners in 20 counties hit with big hikes when they received their bills this year for 1975 taxes. However Johnson said from 1977 on the bills would remain fairly constant except for tax levies added by voters at the polls.

Approved by the Senate and sent to the governor Monday night by a 24-0 vote was a measure permitting boards of education to pay expenses of members-elect for orientation and training sessions prior to being sworn in.

By the same vote, senators approved and sent the House a bill that eases requirements for guardians of minors and mental incompetents left with small estates.

Because of absenteeism — nine senators were absent from the chamber — leaders deferred until later this week a second roll call on a constitutional amendment they thought had been approved for a June 8 ballot spot by a 21-8 vote last Thursday.

Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-5 Dayton, chair-sponsor of the House-passed proposal, said he wants another vote to be certain all procedural requirements have been met. The House approved the same proposal with two roll call votes, one on a joint conference committee's report on the amendment and the other on the amendment itself last Wednesday.

Hall said he wants to avoid legal challenges of the constitutional change that would permit Ohioans to elect their governor and lieutenant governor as a team. If approved by voters, the first joint election would be in November 1978.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee, following the Senate floor session, had more proponent testimony on a bill giving Ohio a new utility ratemaking formula.

Witnesses included Daniel Seeley of Cincinnati, spokesman for the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, who said the existing formula allows utilities to "disguise" their rates of return.

The new formula, provided for in the bill by Rep. John T. McCormack, D-31 Euclid, would assure utilities of their needed growth to accommodate Ohio consumers, while at the same time assuring that their monthly bills are directly related to costs, said Seeley, who is manager of technical services for Federated Department Stores, Inc., Cincinnati.

Opponent witnesses will get a chance to testify Wednesday.

Princess Anne Delays Family

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, 23, says she wants to compete as a member of Great Britain's equestrian team in the Olympics at Montreal this summer before having children.

The only daughter of Queen Elizabeth II said in an interview published in a British magazine that she feels "having a family can wait a bit longer."

Anne's husband, army Capt. Mark Phillips, said the couple's hopes of having children have been hampered not only by Anne's Olympic ambitions but also by the lack of time they get to spend together.

"I'm away on army exercises or she's away" on royal functions, Phillips said. "We certainly don't spend as much time together as we'd like."

Property Tax Bill Approval Expected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sponsors predicted approval today of a property tax bill designed in part to ease discontent among Ohio homeowners whose liabilities skyrocketed this year as a result of inflated property values.

Rep. John E. Johnson, D-68 Orrville, and others had their bill up for a vote in the House as representatives embarked on its fifth week of this year's session. The Senate returned from weekend recess Monday night for floor action on two comparatively routine measures.

In other developments, the Senate Rules Committee agreed to bring to the floor for a confirmation vote 28 appointments by the governor to various administration positions. Some are cabinet members Rhodes charged the Senate has been holding hostage for political reasons.

All but one was voted out of the committee with a recommendation for favorable floor action. It was that of former State Sen. and ex-U.S. Rep. Walter Powell of Fairfield as a consumer member of the Ohio State Medical Board. His nomination alone was left to the fate of a Senate floor vote. Powell, a Republican, has been under attack from labor groups.

Princess Anne Delays Family

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, 23, says she wants to compete as a member of Great Britain's equestrian team in the Olympics at Montreal this summer before having children.

The only daughter of Queen Elizabeth II said in an interview published in a British magazine that she feels "having a family can wait a bit longer."

Anne's husband, army Capt. Mark Phillips, said the couple's hopes of having children have been hampered not only by Anne's Olympic ambitions but also by the lack of time they get to spend together.

"I'm away on army exercises or she's away" on royal functions, Phillips said. "We certainly don't spend as much time together as we'd like."

Legislative members of the board in 1971 were former Rep. Robert A. Manning of Akron, a Republican, and Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland. Rhodes said it is arguable under law whether they still are members. But he noted the leadership of the legislature is free to name new legislators.

The governor said that on Feb. 9 he plans to notify the other elected state officials on the board—Brown and Ferguson—of his intent to call a meeting two weeks later for the purpose of starting action to give Ohio's voters "a legally correct apportionment."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Her Marriage Is A Dead Connection

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who, in his youth, was in love with a girl who died very young. Billy's mother was a spiritualist, and she told him that his dead girl's spirit had communicated with her and declared that she and Billy would be soul mates eternally.

Billy now communicates directly with this girl. He has taken me to seances in Pennsylvania, Indiana and Florida, where he goes into a trance, talking to his "soul mate" in words of love and passion. He calls her "my wonderful angel girl" and "eternal love." I cry all night after these meetings.

Billy carries her picture over his heart and had a life-sized oil painting made from a snapshot. He keeps the painting in his bedroom with a candle burning near it night and day.

I can't take much more of this. I feel like his housekeeper. Please tell me what to do.

JEALOUS OF A SPIRIT

DEAR JEALOUS: Billy's disturbed. If he doesn't see a doctor, see a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I am frankly surprised and outraged that you would advise a woman to ask her doctor to prescribe a tranquilizer so she wouldn't break down and cry at her daughter's wedding.

What's wrong with crying at a wedding? Your message implies that rather than give vent to an honest emotion and learn to cope with it, one should take a pill.

Which is worse, a tear-stained face at a wedding or the risk of oversedation, possible side effects and a future dependency upon tranquilizers?

"D" IN PORTLAND

DEAR "D": On the remote chance that oversedation, possible side effects and future dependency upon tranquilizers could result, I would certainly agree with you that the mother should skip the tranquilizer and have a good cry. You could be right!

DEAR ABBY: The letter from CRUSHES IN COLORADO could have been written by me five years ago. My situation was identical to hers. I pray that the mother takes your advice and accepts her son's pregnant girl friend as a daughter. Here's my story:

Five years ago, my brilliant, gentle son came to me in his third year of college and said he was dropping out to marry a girl he had gotten pregnant.

I cried. That girl was a nurse! How could she do this? I believed she became pregnant intentionally to trap my son. I asked her, and she answered honestly, "Yes, I planned it because I wanted a home of my own."

My son asked me to sign for him because he wasn't yet 21. I signed and decided to accept this girl as my daughter.

Last April my son died. Our family was and still is saddened, but we are blessed with an adorable grandchild and a devoted daughter-in-law who lets us keep the child whenever we desire.

Our brilliant, gentle son is gone, but thank God he left us a part of him in that precious grandchild.

SADDENED BUT BLESSED

Ambassador Among Best Dressed Men

NEW YORK (AP) — Just in case his Arab counterparts in the United Nations hadn't noticed, American Ambassador Daniel F. Moynihan's breast pocket handkerchief balances "a becoming carefree hairdo."

That, at least, is the judgment of The Fashion Foundation of America, which on Sunday named Moynihan to its list of this year's best dressed men in America.

The foundation said the ambassador may be negative at times at the U.N. but he is "positive in his dress." Selected in the field of statesmen, Moynihan replaces President Ford, who the foundation said, "lost out on the ski slopes."

Named best dressed in government was Gov. Hugh L. Carey of New York, who "manages a continuous trim look." He succeeds Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in this category.

Simplicity in dress was cited in the foundation's 37th annual survey of custom tailors and designers in the selection of Democratic presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter, former governor of Georgia, to head the list of best dressed in public life.

Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry took top honors in the sports, an honor that last year went to Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the New York Yankees. The foundation said that although Landry lost the Super Bowl, he is a winner in his selection of attractive hats and personal clothes coordination.

Socialite and New York City official greeter Angier Biddle Duke heads the civic affairs category, long dominated by former Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Liberace, who designs his own clothes, was named best dressed in the field of entertainment.

Others selected were:

—Finance: Donald Kendall, chairman and chief executive officer, PepsiCo, Inc.

—Business: Edward A. Horrigan Jr., chairman of the board of Cutty Sark.

—Commerce: Bert K. Pulitzer, president of Bert Pulitzer Co., New York.

—Television: Johnny Carson, NBC "Tonight" show star.

—Host: Louis Rukeyser, host of Public Broadcasting's "Wall Street Week."

—Theatre: Don Murray, star of Broadway's "Norman Conquests."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Young Joey invited several chums into his backyard to play with a lightweight ball and bat. During the game another boy lost his grip on the bat and it struck a little girl in the nose.

Result: a damage suit was filed against Joey's parents on behalf of the victim.

"She was on their premises," went the argument in court, "with their knowledge and consent. Therefore, she was entitled to play there in safety."

But the court, finding that the game was not abnormally hazardous, held the parents not liable. Merely allowing children to play in their yard, said the court, did not mean they were guaranteeing them against all risks.

The case illustrates that a home owner is not automatically responsible for a mishap that befalls a youthful visitor. He does not have to make his premises "child proof."

Nevertheless, he does have to make fair allowance for childish traits.

In another case a housewife left a bubbling percolator near the edge of a table, even though a small boy was playing close by. The boy knocked the percolator over, spilling hot coffee on his arm.

Here, the housewife was held liable. The court said she should have realized that one so young was not likely to sense the danger.

Even if the child is a trespasser, the householder may be responsible for a hazard that is particularly appealing to youngsters.

Thus, a property owner who had a power line strung through the upper branches of a tree was held liable for the electric shock suffered by a trespassing boy. The court said the defendant knew that children — "following childish instincts" — often climbed the tree, hence could and should have taken steps to minimize the risk.

Children's Hospital Receives Grant

Frank D. Ray, Chairman of the Central Ohio Chapter — March of Dimes, has announced that the Birth Defects Center at Children's Hospital, Columbus, has received a 1976 March of Dimes Medical Service Grant in the amount of $42,379.

Doctor Stella B. Kontras, director of the Birth Defects Center, explained that the grant would make possible the continuation of such programs as genetic counseling, studies in chromosome analysis, and the evaluation and treatment of birth defects patients.

Founded in 1960 as the first Birth Defects Center in the United States, the Columbus center will serve between 1,300 and 1,500 patients during the next year.

Children's Hospital is one of seven medical institutions in Ohio receiving medical service grants totaling over $222,000 from the March of Dimes for 1976.

Appalachians Need Recognition

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Although they are viewed and treated as a distinct subculture in this state, Ohio provides neither recognition of them as a minority nor assistance to them as such."

They are Ohio's 2.1 million Appalachians, as described by Rep. Mike Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, who has introduced legislation to create a state Commission on Appalachian Affairs.

"They are more vulnerable to stereotyping than any other group in this country," says Stinziano. "The establishment of an Ohio Council of Appalachian Affairs is to assist both rural and urban Appalachians to become productive, economically self-sufficient Ohioans they wish to be."

Stinziano's bill defines Appalachians as being residents of 28 Southeastern Ohio counties, and also "urban migrants" who trace their origins to that area and parts of 12 other states making up the Appalachian belt.

These include neighboring Kentucky, Pennsylvania and all of West Virginia.

Stinziano wants state help for the large migrant populations locked in the inner cities of Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, Akron and Dayton as well as for those Ohioans still living in the southeastern foothills.

"Experience in coal mines does not translate easily into urban employment," he told the House Economic Affairs and Federal Relations Committee. "Many have never lived in a metropolitan area before...the regimentation and impersonality of urban housing are the first of many cultural shocks which make assimilation extremely difficult."

The proposed Commission on Appalachian Affairs would conduct hearings, investigations and studies of problems unique to Appalachians, promote their culture and folkways, and work with private organizations and state government.

It would oversee an Office of Appalachian Affairs to act as a clearing house for projects, and grants and assure citizens access to government decisionmaking bodies. The bill would also establish a State Inter-agency Council on Appalachian Affairs to coordinate exchanges of information and delivery of state services.

Stinziano, who represents a district heavily laced with former West Virginians, claims 1-3 of the state's 371,000 unemployed have roots in Appalachia.

"For many," he says, "the move north in search of employment has been a tragic one."

The panel also heard candid firsthand testimony from Shirley Childress, a Cincinnati woman in her mid-20s, working to restore her crumbling inner city Camp Washington neighborhood, a virtual Appalachian ghetto.

"I'm a dropout," she said. "I'm working on it now. I hope to graduate from high school in June."

Although Cincinnati is unique in that Appalachians are included in its Affirmative Action program, Mrs. Childress said the neighborhood needs more help from government agencies.

Judge Raps S.S. Kresge

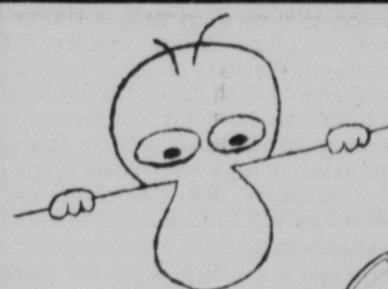

CLEVELAND (AP)—Common Pleas Court Judge Saul Stillman has ordered the S.S. Kresge Co. to quit using Cincinnati courts to garnishee the wages of Cuyahoga County residents.

In issuing the ruling Monday, Stillman said he feels "repugnance when someone comes into a courtroom and says 'I've lived in Cleveland, purchased in Cleveland and I'm being sued in Hamilton County.'"

The ruling was on a class action suit brought by the Cleveland Legal Aid Society, later joined by the Ohio attorney general's office.

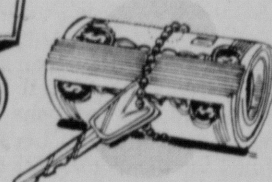

Kresge attorneys Randal Block and Harold Wagner of Cincinnati argued that the practice was legal because the store's billing operations are in Hamilton County.

Judge Raps S.S. Kresge

CLEVELAND (AP)—Common Pleas Court Judge Saul Stillman has ordered the S.S. Kresge Co. to quit using Cincinnati courts to garnish the wages of Cuyahoga County residents.

In issuing the ruling Monday, Stillman said he feels "repugnance when someone comes into a courtroom and says 'I've lived in Cleveland, purchased in Cleveland and I'm being sued in Hamilton County.'"

The ruling was on a class action suit brought by the Cleveland Legal Aid Society, later joined by the Ohio attorney general's office.

Kresge attorneys Randal Block and Harold Wagner of Cincinnati argued that the practice was legal because the store's billing operations are in Hamilton County.

Ambassador Among Best Dressed Men

NEW YORK (AP) — Just in case his Arab counterparts in the United Nations hadn't noticed, American Ambassador Daniel F. Moynihan's breast pocket handkerchief balances "a becoming carefree hairdo."

That, at least, is the judgment of The Fashion Foundation of America, which on Sunday named Moynihan to its list of this year's best dressed men in America.

The foundation said the ambassador may be negative at times at the U.N. but he is "positive in his dress." Selected in the field of statesmen, Moynihan replaces President Ford, who the foundation said, "lost out on the ski slopes."

Named best-dressed in government was Gov. Hugh L. Carey of New York, who "manages a continuous trim look." He succeeds Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in this category.

Simplicity in dress was cited in the foundation's 37th annual survey of custom tailors and designers in the selection of Democratic presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter, former governor of Georgia, to head the list of best dressed in public life.

Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry took top honors in the sports, an honor that last year went to Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the New York Yankees. The foundation said that although Landry lost the Super Bowl, he is a winner in his selection of attractive hats and personal clothes coordination.

Socialite and New York City official greeter Angier Biddle Duke heads the civic affairs category, long dominated by former Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Liberace, who designs his own clothes, was named best dressed in the field of entertainment.

Others selected were: —Finance: Donald Kendall, chairman and chief executive officer, PepsiCo, Inc.

—Business: Edward A. Horrigan Jr., chairman of the board of Cutty Sark.

—Commerce: Bert K. Pulitzer, president of Bert Pulitzer Co., New York.

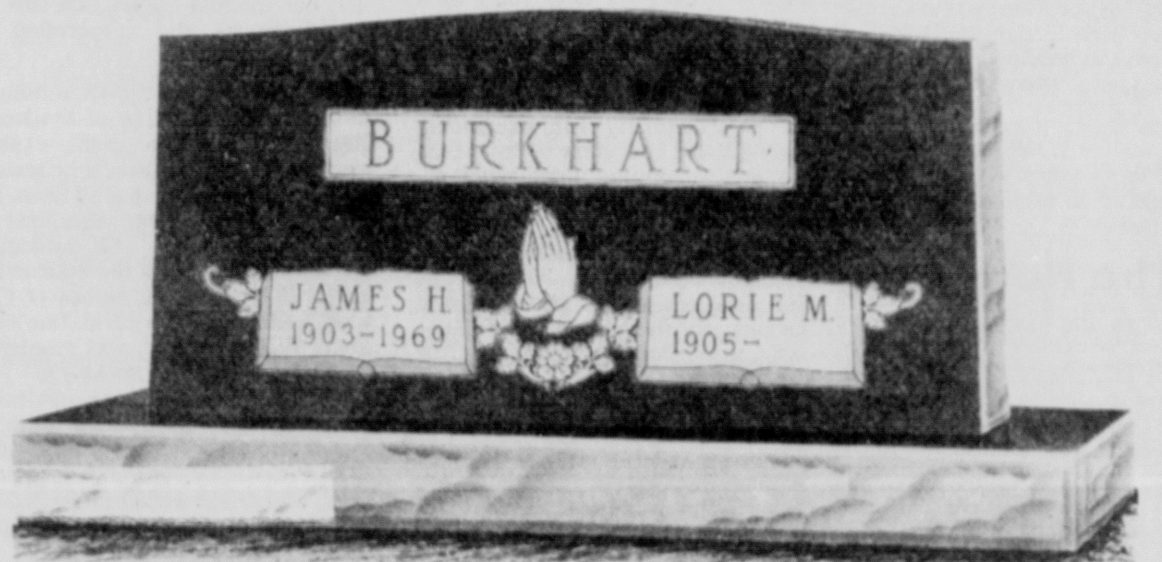

—Television: Johnny Carson, NBC "Tonight" show star.

—Host: Louis Rukeyser, host of Public Broadcasting's "Wall Street Week."

—Theatre: Don Murray, star of Broadway's "Norman Conquests."

A Lesson For America

The news that the Soviet Union is facing a cash pinch because of grain purchases should be a lesson to the United States.

The Soviet deficit has mounted rapidly because of those purchases, but also because of their continual overseas political actions and heavy defense spending.

Now they are seeking credits, where they won't have to use up their money reserves. We suggest utmost caution in getting those credits.

The Soviets have oil this nation could use, and bargaining on that basis could also be used.

However, and primarily, the government should point out that if Russia would keep her nose out of many situations in which she doesn't belong, she would not be expending her treasure so rapidly.

This nation's government could also be given the same advice.

Why Johnny Can't Think

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — According to Fred B. Julian, a concerned San Franciscan, television may lead, imminently, to "the death of the press."

"I find this most distasteful to contemplate," he writes me, "but I can't seem to get it out of my nut that there must be a connection between TV-watching and simple-mindedness." As children watch the tube, they lose the inclination to read. And "when the current crop of readers dies off and the new crop fails to mature, your audience (as a newspaper writer) is shrinking day by day."

"It seems almost foregone that within a brief decade or two newspaper publishing will become economically unfeasible, owing to lack of readers."

For at least 10 years now, Julian has been writing his view that, as we journey further and further into the commercial TV age, the sequel to "Why Johnny Can't Read" is being written. It might be titled, "Why Johnny Can't Think." TV, he says, offers ready-made thinking. Minds are like muscles, thriving on exercise but failing to develop if they are not used. "If you contrast any kind of reading with TV watching, you come up with this: readers are obliged to translate simple visual images of letters, words, and sentences into complex mental images of thoughts, ideas or pictures in order to extract meaning from what is being read."

"This compulsory mental exercise which accompanies reading is conducive to reasoning as well as understanding," he continues. "The mind doesn't have all that tiresome work to do when you watch TV. In fact, the nerves which transmit thought impulses may become so crowded with responses resulting from audio-visual stimulation that you couldn't think if you wanted to. All you can do is react."

No more mental calisthenics. Only pictures. No more effort. Only relaxation.

"But as pleasurable as it may be to look at pictures, the child who doesn't learn to read properly has nothing but problems ahead," Julian warns. "If only parents could be made to understand this. They wouldn't dream of not helping a child learn to walk, yet by not helping him learn to read they risk letting him go through life as a mental cripple. In an age when education has become increasingly important in order to compete successfully — it's the readers, not the watchers, who become the best thinkers and get the best jobs."

Recent studies by the U.S. Office of Education concluded that more than 23 million American adults (one in every five) lack the basic intelligence to function effectively in society. And an additional 40 million (one in every three) have just the "minimum competence" to be effective citizens and wage-earners.

The response to these studies was to question the quality of U.S. education. Fred B. Julian feels the schools shouldn't be the scapegoat.

"A wise Pope is reputed to have said, 'Give me a child for its first six years and you can have it thereafter.' In place of the wise Pope we now have the mindless monster which masquerades as an appliance in our homes."

"It provides entertainment, saves us the trouble of reading newspapers, and not infrequently serves as a babysitter. But it has an additional, largely unsuspected capability. It can turn normal children into moral morons and semi-illiterate teenagers."

TV has been a part of family life for more than 25 years. Its "mind-bending aspects" have not yet been fully explored. But "in view of steadily deteriorating test scores in schools throughout America," writes Julian, "I should think a thorough investigation of this subject would seem urgent, not only to Health, Education and Welfare and concerned educators, but to the general public. Test results appear to indicate that the per capita educability of American children is declining. We have a compelling reason to heed such danger signals. Today's children are tomorrow's voters and the votes of those who don't think count just as heavily as the votes of those who do. So far, the soundness of our political system with its checks and balances has kept us afloat in spite of nonthinkers. But what of the day when they will outnumber thinkers by a sizable majority?"

On that day, unless steps are taken to prevent its coming, elections will be decided on the basis of TV images, rather than logic and understanding.

"Making sure that our young people learn to read is the best assurance we can give them that they won't vote away their political freedom some day," writes Julian. We must teach them that "doers always have more fun than watchers, and that reading is the one key to open the door to a world of ideas. What illiterate children don't realize is that nearly every skilled reader has a built-in, full-screen, color TV set inside his head which turns on automatically whenever one begins to read. And no commercials!"

Set Trial For Murder

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Richard Woodrick, 17, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was ordered Monday to stand trial on charges of first-degree murder in the New Year's Eve strangulation of a 16-year-old girl.

Circuit Judge Charles T. Carlton, after denying a defense motion to dismiss the charge against Woodrick, set a March 30 trial date.

Woodrick appeared in court with his attorneys to plead innocent in the slaying of Linda Greenbaum of Shaker Heights, Ohio, daughter of a prominent Cleveland stock broker.

Prosecutors charge that Woodrick, son of a wealthy grocery chain owner, strangled Miss Greenbaum on a deserted private beach at a posh Marco Island resort about 30 minutes before 1976 began.

Panel Hears Ray Appeal

CINCINNATI (AP)—A three-judge panel of the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was expected today to hear the latest bid for a new trial by James Earl Ray, convicted killer of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Two years ago, the Cincinnati appeals court granted an evidentiary hearing to Ray after his attorney charged the Illinois-born convict was "browbeaten, bribed and badgered" into pleading guilty.

Ray was denied a new trial last February by U.S. District Court Judge Robert McRae of Memphis. He ruled that Ray's confession to King's death was made voluntarily on the advice of competent attorneys.

Ray, serving a 99-year prison term for the 1968 sniper slaying, has insisted his former attorneys coerced him into pleading guilty to keep facts in the case from coming out in open court to protect royalty rights on a book.

Ray, 48, has spent seven years in the Tennessee State Prison in Nashville. He was arrested in London two months after the April 4, 1968 murder of King.

It was on June 9, 1885, that the Biggs Iron and Tool Co. first welded iron and steel together in northern Ohio with natural gas.

LAFF - A - DAY

"How would you like it if I hid MY face behind a newspaper every morning?"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our whole household revolves around the constant illnesses of my older brother. He's now 29. Never a day passes that he doesn't complain of some pain or ache. He can't hold a job because his absentee rate is so high.

His doctor, a family friend, is sympathetic, even though he cannot find any basis for the symptoms. All of us are desperately in need of help.

Miss B.L., Calif.

Dear Miss L.:

The medical, psychological and social forces that you describe are typical of hypochondria. This is an abnormal preoccupation with symptoms of illness.

Those burdened by this problem concentrate all their energies on their body functions, their food intake, and their minor pains and aches. It must not be denied that, even in the absence of a known cause, they really suffer, emotionally and physically, from their phantom diseases.

They seem to gain little or no support from repeated examinations by their doctors. A series of injections, antibiotics, or physical therapy may be effective. Soon, however, the benefits disappear and the hypochondriac returns to the distress of his nonexistent diseases.

Many bounce from doctor to doctor, hoping that someone will free them from the yoke of suffering.

Even worse, the hypochondriac becomes an easy prey for exploitation by every form of quackery.

Their emotions and their finances often become totally exhausted and, eventually, are hopelessly ensnared by their own created diseases.

Your whole family now is being strangled by another person's fantasy. It must be clear to you that sympathy and understanding are not the complete answers to this massive problem.

Undoubtedly, a psychiatrist or a psychologist long ago should have probed into his emotional background, in order to uncover the origin of the conflict that lies within him.

This approach represents a radical departure from all other forms of treatment that have been tried up to now. It will take a great deal of courage on your brother's part to relinquish his comfortable refuge of hypochondriasis and to get at the cause of his emotional conflict. At this point you can offer your greatest contribution to his eventual return to physical and emotional good health. By following the suggestion of the psychiatrist, you can offer him support and encouragement.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

The missing ingredient in current congressional investigations of the Central Intelligence Agency is a genuine appreciation for the importance of national security.

That is an unfortunate omission, since the stakes involved could ultimately be our very survival as a nation. Congress faces the thorny problem of deciding how it should both protect the confidentiality of our intelligence apparatus and assure that adequate independent oversight is exercised.

Whatever excesses the CIA has committed — and there have been some — should not have come as a total shock to Congress. After all, since the early 1950s, subcommittees of the House of Armed Services and Appropriations committees have had the responsibility for exercising oversight and budgetary review of the CIA and the foreign intelligence activities of this country.

In fact, Congress has always had control over the pursestrings of intelligence activities. It certainly has had more than enough opportunities in the past year to learn what the CIA is doing. Since the end of 1974, the CIA has briefed eight congressional committees on its covert operation proposals.

Thus far, the select intelligence committees have been more interested in developing more oversight control than preserving the confidentiality of vital intelligence information.

The House Intelligence Committee, for example, had voted to publish top-secret details of U.S. intelligence operations, despite the potential for irreparable damage from such an action.

However, the Rules Committee voted to block release of the intelligence report, until President Ford had certified that its release would not be harmful to our national interest. Full House approval of the Rules Committee resolution came on a 246 to 124 vote. I supported the resolution.

It should be obvious that most of what we learn through our intelligence efforts is only valuable because others don't know what we know.

The CIA must abide by the law, as any American citizen must. However, in our efforts to prosecute those few in our intelligence community who do commit crimes, we must not cripple our foreign intelligence services and thus, increase the danger of American involvement in direct arms conflict.

Neither our allies nor our enemies will have to wait for the select committee's report, when and if it is released to the public officially. In violation of its own rules and its agreement with the White House, the committee has permitted highly sensitive information on CIA activities to "leak" to the press — notably the Washington Post and New York Times.

Outgoing CIA Director William Colby said recently that every new covert program reported to Congress in 1975 was leaked to the press. That kind of irresponsibility is certain to alert our enemies abroad and cost us the confidence and cooperation of many of our allies.

Those who cannot bring themselves to take a realistic view of the world situation and who must expose everything for the sake of exposure, have created a dangerous situation for our intelligence agents. As a case in point, "Counterspy", a magazine apparently devoted to the destruction of the CIA, published names of CIA operatives around the world. One such agent, Richard Welch, was murdered in Athens just a few weeks ago.

Under existing law, the editors of this magazine and others like it, cannot be punished. That is a travesty, and it demands corrective action. These agents are acting under orders and should not be exposed to hostile action.

To avoid a repetition of this, I am co-sponsoring legislation to make it a federal offense, punishable by 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine, to publicly identify a U.S. intelligence agent.

This is not an attempt to trample on the First Amendment right of a free press. It does not prohibit the publishing of anything at all. It does, however, raise the government's right to prosecute if such publication violates the rights of another. Making an agent a possible target for assassination certainly violates his rights.

President Ford hit the nail on the head in describing the dangers of unmasking our intelligence operations. He said, "Our adversaries are encouraged to attempt new adventures while our own ability to monitor events and to influence events short of military action is undermined. Without effective intelligence capability, the United States stands blindfolded and hobbled."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our whole household revolves around the constant illnesses of my older brother. He's now 29. Never a day passes that he doesn't complain of some pain or ache. He can't hold a job because his absentee rate is so high.

His doctor, a family friend, is sympathetic, even though he cannot find any basis for the symptoms. All of us are desperately in need of help.

Miss B.L., Calif.

Dear Miss L.:

The medical, psychological and social forces that you describe are typical of hypochondria. This is an abnormal preoccupation with symptoms of illness.

Those burdened by this problem concentrate all their energies on their body functions, their food intake, and their minor pains and aches. It must not be denied that, even in the absence of a known cause, they really suffer, emotionally and physically, from their phantom diseases.

They seem to gain little or no support from repeated examinations by their doctors. A series of injections, antibiotics, or physical therapy may be effective. Soon, however, the benefits disappear and the hypochondriac returns to the distress of his nonexistent diseases.

Many bounce from doctor to doctor,

hoping that someone will free them from the yoke of suffering.

Even worse, the hypochondriac becomes an easy prey for exploitation by every form of quackery.

Their emotions and their finances often become totally exhausted and, eventually, are hopelessly ensnared by their own created diseases.

Your whole family now is being strangled by another person's fantasy. It must be clear to you that sympathy and understanding are not the complete answers to this massive problem.

Undoubtedly, a psychiatrist or a psychologist long ago should have probed into his emotional background, in order to uncover the origin of the conflict that lies within him.

This approach represents a radical departure from all other forms of treatment that have been tried up to now. It will take a great deal of courage on your brother's part to relinquish his comfortable refuge of hypochondriasis and to get at the cause of his emotional conflict. At this point you can offer your greatest contribution to his eventual return to physical and emotional good health. By following the suggestion of the psychiatrist, you can offer him support and encouragement.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

The missing ingredient in current congressional investigations of the Central Intelligence Agency is a genuine appreciation for the importance of national security.

That is an unfortunate omission, since the stakes involved could ultimately be our very survival as a nation. Congress faces the thorny problem of deciding how it should both protect the confidentiality of our intelligence apparatus and assure that adequate independent oversight is exercised.

Whatever excesses the CIA has committed — and there have been some — should not have come as a total shock to Congress. After all, since the early 1950s, subcommittees of the House of Armed Services and Appropriations committees have had the responsibility for exercising oversight and budgetary review of the CIA and the foreign intelligence activities of this country.

In fact, Congress has always had control over the pursestrings of intelligence activities. It certainly has had more than enough opportunities in the past year to learn what the CIA is doing. Since the end of 1974, the CIA has briefed eight congressional committees on its covert operation proposals.

Thus far, the select intelligence committees have been more interested in developing more oversight control than preserving the confidentiality of vital intelligence information.

The House Intelligence Committee, for example, had voted to publish top-secret details of U.S. intelligence operations, despite the potential for irreparable damage from such an action.

However, the Rules Committee voted to block release of the intelligence report, until President Ford had certified that its release would not be harmful to our national interest. Full House approval of the Rules Committee resolution came on a 246 to 124 vote. I supported the resolution.

It should be obvious that most of what we learn through our intelligence efforts is only valuable because others don't know what we know.

The CIA must abide by the law, as any American citizen must. However, in our efforts to prosecute those few in our intelligence community who do commit crimes, we must not cripple our foreign intelligence services and thus, increase the danger of American involvement in direct arms conflict.

Neither our allies nor our enemies will have to wait for the select committee's report, when and if it is released to the public officially. In violation of its own rules and its agreement with the White House, the committee has permitted highly sensitive information on CIA activities to "leak" to the press — notably the Washington Post and New York Times.

Outgoing CIA Director William Colby said recently that every new covert program reported to Congress in 1975 was leaked to the press. That kind of irresponsibility is certain to alert our enemies abroad and cost us the confidence and cooperation of many of our allies.

Those who cannot bring themselves to take a realistic view of the world situation and who must expose everything for the sake of exposure, have created a dangerous situation for our intelligence agents. As a case in point, "Counterspy", a magazine apparently devoted to the destruction of the CIA, published names of CIA operatives around the world. One such agent, Richard Welch, was murdered in Athens just a few weeks ago.

Under existing law, the editors of this magazine and others like it, cannot be punished. That is a travesty, and it demands corrective action. These agents are acting under orders and should not be exposed to hostile action.

To avoid a repetition of this, I am co-sponsoring legislation to make it a federal offense, punishable by 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine, to publicly identify a U.S. intelligence agent.

This is not an attempt to trample on the First Amendment right of a free press. It does not prohibit the publishing of anything at all. It does, however, raise the government's right to prosecute if such publication violates the rights of another. Making an agent a possible target for assassination certainly violates his rights.

President Ford hit the nail on the head in describing the dangers of unmasking our intelligence operations. He said, "Our adversaries are encouraged to attempt new adventures while our own ability to monitor events and to influence events short of military action is undermined. Without effective intelligence capability, the United States stands blindfolded and hobbled."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Boosted by falling interest rates, the stock market is now at a rarefied height where so many rocket-like surges of the past 10 years have run out of fuel and fallen back to earth.

This one could very well keep rising, but a lot of investors had the same ideas about the many other ascensions since the mid-1960s. They were wrong then. Could they be correct now?

The first consideration is whether the market can be assured of a continued supply of fuel in the form of falling interest rates. It is this situation, many market analysts agree, that produced the initial momentum.

That is, as interest rates fell from their record-high levels, their attraction as investments fell too. Billions of dollars that had gone into the debt markets now became potential fuel for the stock market.

The rise and fall of the prime interest rate is a mirror image of the fall and rise of the stock market. The two fit, tongue and groove.

There are now suggestions that the decline of interest rates may be slowing. The lowest prime rate by a major bank is 6.5 per cent, by First National City Bank, but that was posted reluctantly.

As the week began, First City's leadership had drawn few followers, a contrast to the manner in which banks fell into line when the declining prime rate was still around 7.5 or 8 per cent.

There is also a detectable firming of some short-term interest rates that bears watching as perhaps the first signal that a general stabilization of rates is being achieved.

If the fuel is shut off from this source, is there another mixture that might provide further thrust? In all probability, the second stage will depend on broader factors involving the entire economy.

Stock analysts and portfolio managers offer many reasons for believing there is indeed an economic base to support higher prices. To cite two, individuals are becoming more liquid, and corporate profits are expected to continue to improve.

But the tendency to see nothing but strength in such developments could cloud the reality, which is that while conditions are improving, they're improving from a very depressed base.

After-tax corporate profits, for example, do indeed continue to improve, but the rate of improvement is likely to slow.

And how can we ignore the continued high inflation and unemployment? The latter, don't forget, represents the underutilization of a precious asset — the human skills needed to support any economy.

Burned by their past excesses, individuals and businesses both remain somewhat hesitant. Consumer sales, though vastly improved, still aren't showing signs of enthusiasm. And there has been little expression of confidence from business in the form of capital spending plans.

Throughout the economy, public and private, there is a tendency on the part of individuals and institutions to hold back.

The question arises then of where the thrust will come from — individuals, business, government?

Somehow out of those three ingredients must come the energy for the market's second stage.

News Of Interest To Women

The Circleville Herald, Tuesday February 3, 1976

BRIDGE FOR ARTHRITIS — Judy Julian, Jane Downey and Ann Hipp, shown from the left, are among representatives of the Volunteer Action Committee, Central Ohio Chapter Arthritis Foundation, who were among the 40 people who attended the Charity Bridge Game of Circleville Duplicate Bridge Club Wednesday at the YMCA for the Arthritis Foundation. Judy Bartels and Dee Dawson distributed arthritis literature. Pat Turner of Grove City was director of the 10 table game. Winners were Dorothy Liston and Mary Lou Mowery, Ruth Gardner and Lloyd Van Vliet, Audrey and Dave Johnson, and Jane and Bob Downey. Others were Eileen and George Huskey, Margaret and Ken Knox, Margaret Mattinson and Robert Berger, Kay and Gary Sahr. On March 17 the club will participate in a continent-wide charity game for the Arthritis Foundation.

Senior Citizen Art Show To Be Staged In Statehouse

The first All-Senior Citizen Art Show and Auction ever held in Ohio, March 2-7, in the Statehouse Rotunda in Columbus has been announced by Ardath Lynch, administrator of the Central Ohio Area Agency on Aging. Approximately 100 paintings from the eight Central Ohio Counties will be included.

Roundtown Roamers Elect New Officers, Name Committees

Roundtown Roamers camping club held a potluck supper preceding a recent business meeting in the K of P lodge hall in Stoutsville. Present were 17 families and one guest, Miss Roseena Gillam of Xenia.

New officers are Orville Kempton, president; Ralph DeLong, vice-president; Mrs. Judy Ramey, secretary; Miss Lydia DeLong, treasurer; Wesley Edstrom, delegate; Richard Krick, conservationist, and Madeline Tagg, news reporter.

Elected as trustees are Russell Archer, three years; James Fausnaugh, one year. Named as chairman of committees are, Russell Archer, float; Kenny Garrison, project; George Ramey, Donald Gatwood and Melvin Hunt, construction.

The flower fund was discussed and in the future flowers will be sent once a year to each member who is ill. Cards will be sent for each hospital stay. Reported ill this month were Mrs. Lowell Swepston, Mrs. Wesley Edstrom and Orla Hockman.

A discussion was also held on the possibility of winter camping at Dillan State Park or Hueston Woods.

The next meeting will begin 6:30 p.m. on Feb. 28 at the same location.

The paintings will be judged on March 1 and Governor Rhodes will auction the winning painting 10 a.m., March 2. During the remainder of the show all paintings will be for sale and at its end all will be auctioned to a minimum price named by the artist who may then claim his work if not sold.

In October the Ohio Commission on Aging made arrangements with several Central Ohio Senior Citizen Clubs and Centers through the Central Ohio Area Agency on Aging to hang some of their artists' paintings in the Governor's Executive Offices for a period of three months. Senior Citizens of Pickaway County having paintings now hanging there are, Beatrice Owens, Dorothy Smith and Ruth Woodward.

Governor Rhodes originated the idea for the show and asked the Ohio Commission on Aging to coordinate the event through local agencies.

Any Ohioan in the listed area over the age of 60 is eligible to enter by contacting Pickaway Senior Center at 474-8209. Vera Sanders will supply information as to rules, entry forms and place of delivery of the paintings. The number of entries is limited and all will be judged before being sent to the show.

7 Bahamas' Course To Be Offered At Westfall

By MISS JANE WILKERSON
Westfall High School students will have the opportunity to participate in a Field Studies Program this next summer.

The field work for the course, entitled "Tropical and Marine Biology" will take place on Andros Inland in the Bahamas. If students do all work required, they will receive 1/2 credit on their school record.

The students will leave the school at 6 p.m. June 16. They will return June 27.

A second group of students from Lima Shawnee High will be met on the road near Covington, Kentucky. Both groups will proceed to Ft. Lauderdale, Florida.

After a brief stay in Florida, they will fly to Andros Town Airport in the Bahamas on the International Field Studies DC 3. During their nine-day stay on the Inland, the students will stay at Forfar Field Station. Forfar is owned and operated by IFS, a non-profit educational organization.

The facilities at the station include, cabins, scuba equipment, several boats, numerous trucks, a variety of biological equipment, and a library for evening studies.

Among the many experiences on the Inland, there will be a river run, scuba and snorkeling expeditions, interior hikes, coral reef studies, cave studies, key studies, and visits to the local communities. The major areas of study will be of a biological nature, however some aspects of geology, history, and sociology will be touched upon.

Prior to leaving Westfall, the students will be required to complete a notebook which will be of such a nature that it will be used as a field guide on the Inland. A second notebook will be kept on the Inland. This notebook which will be in the form of a journal will consist of observations of the various sites visited.

Upon returning from the Inland, the students will be required to complete a third notebook which will correlate the first and second books. Each student will also be required to make contributions to a resource bank, during the eight seminars which will be held at the high school during March and April, prior to the trip.

The trip will be instructed by Jane Wilkerson from Westfall and Doug Wynn from Lima Shawnee. Two other adults will also accompany the group during the entire trip. Additional adult supervision will be provided by the Forfar Field Station staff during the stay on the Inland.

The trip is open to any Westfall student who has completed at least one course in science and possesses the necessary social requirements.

Questions about the trip can be addressed to either Miss Jane Wilkerson or Robert Debo, principal at Westfall.

Minutemen

By Your Westfall
Bicentennial Minuteman

It was on the morning of April 19, 1775, that the British first encountered the minutemen. Lieutenant Colonel Francis Smith and 700 British soldiers were ordered by General Thomas Gage, governor of Massachusetts, to march from Boston to Concord to destroy the colonists' military supplies. As the soldiers approached Lexington, they were met by 70 minutemen. Here the first bloodshed was spilled as eight minutemen were killed. The British then proceeded to Concord. They were fought back to Boston where they were surrounded by 16,000 minutemen and attacked until the British left the city.

These minutemen received their name because of their being ready to fight at a minute's notice. As a tribute to these men, a park has been established at Concord, Massachusetts, known as the Minuteman National Aistorical Park. A statue of a minuteman stands guard over the park.

Inscribed on the statue are the following words:

"By the rude bridge that Arched the flood,

Their flag to April is Breeze unfurled,

Here once the embattled Farmers stood,

And fired the shot heard Round the world."

Just as the minutemen did over 200 years ago, we too must be ready at a minute's notice. We must be ready to stand up for our community, state, and most important of all, our country. Let people know you are proud to be an American. Although we are not "fighting" with weapons, remember this. Our actions and our words toward our country can be just as tragic for her if they are not properly displayed and spoken.

Attending Westfall this year is Maria Lucia Domingoes DeCastro, a new exchange student from Brazil. She is staying with Carolyn and Paul Rittenhouse and their parents Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rittenhouse.

Maria is 17-years-old and the daughter of John Domingoes DeCastro and Mrs. Marlen Domingoes DeCastros. She has two brothers and two sisters.

She likes everything about Westfall and says the only main differences between her school and Westfall is that her school is larger and the students are allowed to smoke in the classroom.

Maria's hobbies include volleyball, swimming, bowling and horseback riding.

When asked what she liked about Ohio, she said nothing much except the snow, and that she missed the mountains in Brazil.

The "Mustang Country" Staff would like to welcome Maria to Westfall, and we sincerely hope she enjoys her stay.

Student Council Holds '50's Day'

By SHIRLEY FIELDS

On January 23, the students at Westfall High School traveled back into time about 20 years to celebrate "50's Day", sponsored by the Student Council. It turned out to be a real lift for a Friday.

The seniors challenged all underclassment to outdress them. As one walked down the halls he could see many girls dressed in sweaters, long skirts, bobbiesocks, and saddles. The guys had on their rolled-up jeans, t-shirts, white-socks, leather coats, and smoke glasses or suits with skinny neckties of the 50's.

The "50's Day" carried into the night. Many students dressed in their 50's outfits for the Westfall vs. Piketon showdown. The spirit of the 50's really moved the Mustang players as they toppled the Redstreaks 83 to 63. After the game a "50's Sock-Hop" was held in the auditorium. A huge turnout came to rock to the sounds of the 50's through today's rock played by our own disc jockey, John Eithel, with Robert Debo and Jerrold Fields as chaperones.

The 50's Day was one of the most enjoyed events at Westfall this year. The students would like to thank the Student Council for sponsoring it and hope to celebrate another day of this sort.

Money-Saving Service Offered At C And S

Ray Crawford, owner and operator of C and S Auto Electric for less than a year, is steadily building a solid reputation for offering outstanding service . . . and saving your money at the same time.

And it's very easy to see why. Car owners with electrical problems can have their suspected faulty components bench tested at C and S free of charge by Crawford. That testing includes Crawford's expert diagnosis of electrical problems in an effort to "help people save money."

If the component can be repaired, Crawford will open it up and replace the bad with new integral parts from an outstanding line of manufacturers.

Savings? Crawford estimates that the cash difference between repair of a component and replacement of the component with a new or rebuilt unit amounts to between 50 and 75 per cent.

But, the part is worn-out, or if the owner wishes a new unit, Crawford can again be of service with new, top-of-the-line equipment.

C and S has been selected as a direct factory outlet for the outstanding Delco-Remy line of electrical parts including voltage regulators, starters, generators, and alternators.

This means that owners of General Motors products can replace engine components with the standard Delco-Remy equipment rather than taking a chance with another manufacturer's line of products.

"It makes sense to replace parts on GM vehicles with the same parts," Crawford says.

C and S Auto Electric is also the authorized warranty service center in Central Ohio for Delco-Remy, a service that will help auto dealers (and car owners, too) save time and money.

In conjunction, Crawford has been selected to attend a four-day seminar on automobile and truck electrical systems sponsored by Delco-Remy in late February.

C and S also features the only integral voltage regulator test equipment for GM products in Central Ohio. The unit can easily be used to test the effectiveness of Delco-Remy voltage regulators to determine if they must be repaired or replaced.

Other manufacturers' lines carried by Crawford include Ace and Arrow parts.

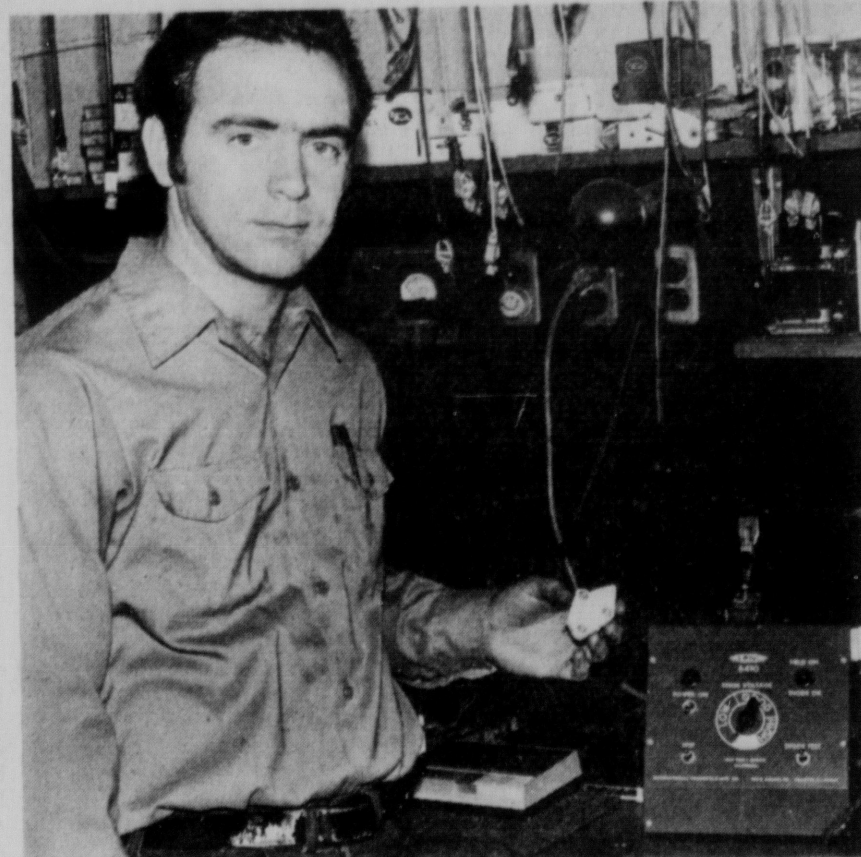

In the inventory, Crawford stocks a large selection of rebuilt parts for the do-it-yourselfer or foreign car owner.

Crawford, a 1964 graduate of Circleville High School, became interested in repairing equipment while attending school. He and his wife Beverly have a daughter, Cessie, 5.

C and S Auto Electric, located at the rear of 348 E. Franklin St., is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

The next time you suspect that an electrical component may be malfunctioning, stop in and see Ray. He'll not only test the part free of charge, but give you an estimate on repairing it with new components or replacing it with his fine line of new parts.

At any rate, he will save you money.

INTEGRAL VOLTAGE REGULATORS from General Motors' cars and trucks can be tested with special equipment Crawford acquired when he was appointed the direct factory outlet for Delco Remy in Central Ohio. The tests are quick, and best of all, free of charge.

CRAWFORD CAN REPAIR electrical parts that others usually replace with new or rebuilt parts, and when he fixes them, he uses only new integral parts. Here, on a specially-designed lathe, Crawford cleans and repairs the brush end of the armature in a starter. He can also undercut and regroove the commutator end.

Money-Saving Service Offered At C And S

Ray Crawford, owner and operator of C and S Auto Electric for less than a year, is steadily building a solid reputation for offering outstanding service . . . and saving your money at the same time.

And it's very easy to see why. Car owners with electrical problems can have their suspected faulty components bench tested at C and S free of charge by Crawford. That testing includes Crawford's expert diagnosis of electrical problems in an effort to "help people save money."

If the component can be repaired, Crawford will open it up and replace the bad with new integral parts from an outstanding line of manufacturers.

Savings? Crawford estimates that the cash difference between repair of a component and replacement of the component with a new or rebuilt unit amounts to between 50 and 75 per cent.

But, the part is worn-out, or if the owner wishes a new unit, Crawford can again be of service with new, top-of-the-line equipment.

C and S has been selected as a direct factory outlet for the outstanding Delco-Remy line of electrical parts including voltage regulators, starters, generators, and alternators.

This means that owners of General Motors products can replace engine components with the standard Delco-Remy equipment rather than taking a chance with another manufacturer's line of products.

"It makes sense to replace parts on GM vehicles with the same parts," Crawford says.

C and S Auto Electric is also the authorized warranty service center in Central Ohio for Delco-Remy, a service that will help auto dealers (and car owners, too) save time and money.

In conjunction, Crawford has been selected to attend a four-day seminar on automobile and truck electrical systems sponsored by Delco-Remy in late February.

C and S also features the only integral voltage regulator test equipment for GM products in Central Ohio. The unit can easily be used to test the effectiveness of Delco-Remy voltage regulators to determine if they must be repaired or replaced.

Other manufacturers' lines carried by Crawford include Ace and Arrow parts.

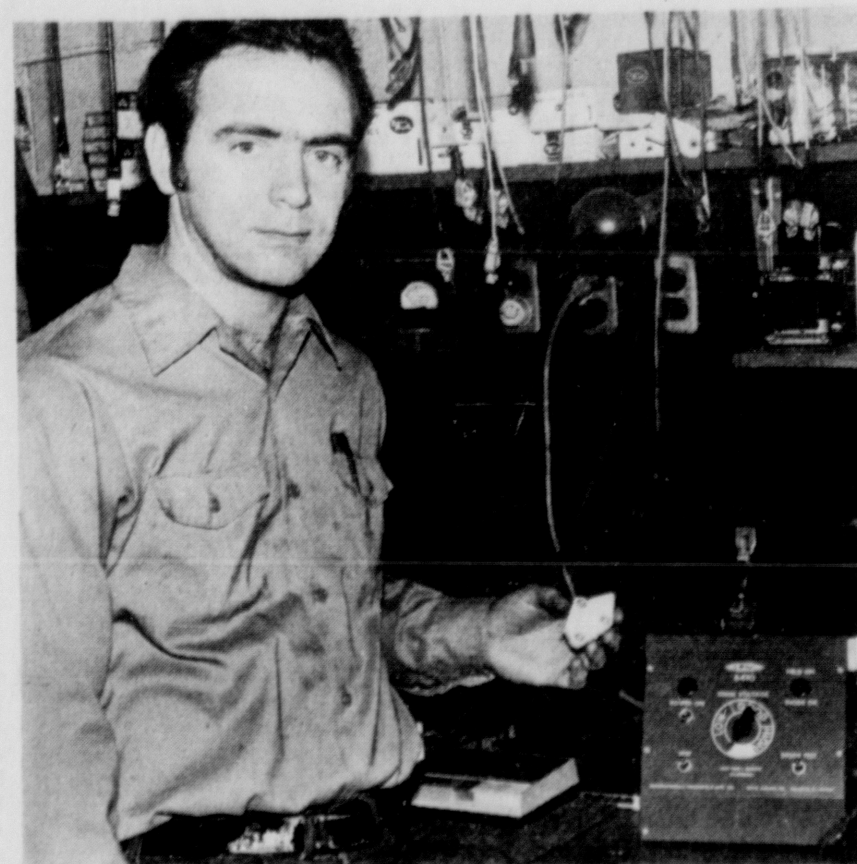

In the inventory, Crawford stocks a large selection of rebuilt parts for the do-it-yourselfer or foreign car owner.

Crawford, a 1964 graduate of Circleville High School, became interested in repairing equipment while attending school. He and his wife Beverly have a daughter, Cessie, 5.

C and S Auto Electric, located at the rear of 348 E. Franklin St., is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

The next time you suspect that an electrical component may be malfunctioning, stop in and see Ray. He'll not only test the part free of charge, but give you an estimate on repairing it with new components or replacing it with his fine line of new parts.

Modern Day Tokyo Rose Wages War

MENDOCINO, Calif. (AP) — The sultry voice of "Mendocino Rose," speaking Russian amid the crackling static of marine radio, is a weapon in a war being waged by this ecology-minded town against Soviet and Japanese whalers.

"Hello, Soviet whalers. This is Octobriana, speaking to you from the former imperial Russian Colony in California."

The Russian-born Californian is known as "Mendocino Rose" — a takeoff on World War II's "Tokyo Rose."

"Mendocino Rose," who declines to be identified because she fears for relatives in Russia, appeals to Soviet sailors to end their slaughter of California gray and sperm whales and defect to the United States. She offers the sailors food, housing and training for other industries in the United States.

Located on wind-carved coastal bluffs about 150 miles north of San Francisco, this town of less than 1,000 residents decided to unleash "Rose" and boycott Japanese-made goods after sighting a Russian whaler off the coast here six months ago.

"We are not against anybody, but we have to save God's whales," said Byrd Baker, 52, a wood sculptor and a warrior in the war.

"And I believe there is a Russian aboard those ships who feels he can't kill another one. The whalers have to feel bad when they see a mother and father dash themselves against a ship after their baby has been harpooned."

Walkout Enters 5th Day Tuesday

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — A walkout by Teamsters Local 898 against the H. K. Porter Co. entered its fifth day Tuesday, with little progress reported in weekend talks.

The union was demanding an increase of $1.70 an hour over three years, while the company was offering $1.22. About 182 of the company's 240 employees walked off the job Friday when their old contract expired.

The company, which makes hard rubber products, said production was continuing on a limited basis.

ACTORS — Roundtown Players' cast includes Harry Payne (Officer O'Hara), left, and Rosemary Linn (Lt. Rooney). Harry, our local Postmaster, is making his first appearance on the stage. Audiences will remember Rosemary for "where's a pencil?", from "Come Blow Your Horn". This is her second appearance on stage. Opening night for "Arsenic and Old Lace" will be 8:30 p.m. on Feb. 12, with performances on Feb. 13 and Feb. 14 and a 2:30 p.m. matinee on Feb. 14. Tickets may be purchased Monday thru Saturday at Memorial Hall between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. by calling 474-5856 for reserved seats.

UFO Dropouts Stop At 'Halfway House'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Deserters from the Great Lost UFO Cult are straggling back after a summer and fall of spiritual wandering, settling gently to earth in a pleasant rustic halfway house in the seclusion of Topanga Canyon.

They have dropped out by choice, most of them disillusioned with what was to have been a journey to a new life beyond the earth promised by the cult's elusive leaders, Bo and Peep, also known as The Two.

Last April, an original group of 24 threw off their families and possessions and dropped out of sight. Many others joined later.

They followed The Two, later identified as Marshall Herff Applewhite, 44, and Bonnie Lu Trusdale Nettles, 48, of Houston. The leaders promised that those who dared to give up everything would be transported aboard a UFO to another spiritual plane.

Followers were required to bring camping gear, clothes, a vehicle and some money. They traveled to various parts of the country, some camping in the desert.

Most of the followers, according to Joan Culpepper, are now scattered across the warmer states of the West and Southwest, still believing they will "graduate" to a higher state of spiritual knowledge.

Joan, as everyone calls her, was one of the original group. But late last fall she and another follower, Tod Burger, dropped out. They set up the halfway house in a comfortably dilapidated, $200-a-month, two-story house in the hills northwest of Los Angeles.

Joan had been a businesswoman and professional psychic.

Her defection came when leaders of her group began to look on her as too outspoken and accused her of creating dissension. They left her and her partner — all followers travel in pairs — in Sedona, Ariz.

Solons Pleased With Ratings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — At least three of the lawmakers, cited as among the most conservative members of the Ohio General Assembly, are rather flattered by their ratings.

Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, the only legislator to score 100 per cent in the United Conservatives of Ohio rating, said he had no qualms about being identified with the far right of the Republican Party.

The 32-year-old attorney said the rating provided an important means of accountability for elected officials.

"I don't think it shows who is right of whom," he said, but you can see who favors big government or social engineering and who does not."

The United Conservatives, an affiliate of the American Conservative Union, recently rated all 132 members of the General Assembly to gauge conservative thinking on a number of key roll-call votes.

The organization, which numbers Batchelder among its members, included votes on right-to-strike, school financing subsidized day care and congressional redistricting. A "nay" was desirable on all of these issues, according to the conservatives.

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-Ashland, who hails from the same north central Ohio region as Batchelder, was "pleased" to learn that he led all state senators with a 97 per cent ranking.

Van Meter, 31, said his votes were based on "common sense" and reflected the thinking of the "mainstream of the people of this state."

Not so pleased was Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland.

Despite a relatively low 26 per cent rating, Calabrese, the dean of the Senate, was given higher marks by the conservatives than any of his 20 Democratic colleagues in the upper chamber.

"I think I'm middle of the road," he protested. "I vote on the issues. I don't care about liberal or conservative. I vote on whether it's good for the people."

However, Rep. John Wargo, D-2 Lisbon, who easily topped House Democrats with 30 per cent, said he thought the "rating was accurate insofar as my district and my Democrats."

"I think we need a hell of a lot more conservative Democrats," the 37-year-old Columbiana County lawmaker added.

Wargo said he was "not impressed with any of the candidates" entered in the Democratic presidential sweepstakes, with the notable exception of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

"I could vote for Wallace," he says. Batchelder could not. He is an ardent supporter of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Crash Injures
Three People

Three people suffered minor injuries when two cars collided at the intersection of Court and Mill Sts. 6:44 p.m. Monday.

Circleville Police Ptl. Mike Eberhard, who investigated the accident, said a pickup truck, driven by Vickie L. Clay, 19, 5078 Ashville Rd., Ashville, apparently collided with a car driven by Rebecca A. Dountz, 19, 503 S. Pickaway St.

The Clay truck was northbound on Court St., while Miss Dountz was headed east on Mill. Ptl. Eberhard noted that witnesses claimed Miss Dountz apparently drove through a red light, and he marked her for a traffic light violation.

However, no charges were filed.

Ms. Clay complained of a bump on her left knee, but refused treatment by the Circleville Emergency Medical Team. A passenger in her truck, 21-year-old Robert A. Cross of Route 1, Ashville, was not hurt.

Miss Dountz and a passenger in her car, Teresa Kingery, 17, 156 1/2 Walnut St., were treated at Berger Hospital's emergency room for minor injuries and later released. Mrs. Kingery complained of a neck injury, possibly a cervical strain.

NEW YORK (AP) — "I went through anguish. I knew I was talented, but I didn't know where or how," says Marjorie Rubacky, a mother of eight who became a successful career consultant.

"I vacillated between thinking 'I'm fantastic' and 'I'm nothing. I don't know anything,'" says the 46-year-old wife of an orthopedic surgeon in Montclair, N.J.

"I knew I wanted a professional-level job, and I wanted my family, too."

Storage Shed
Fire Reported

The Circleville Fire Department answered a call at 6:25 p.m. Monday to a storage shed at 144 Starkey Drive.

A fire caused by a space heater igniting nearby papers resulted in minor damages to the property owned by Robert Lemaster.

Blast Caused
By Cigarette?

NORTH KINGSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—North Kingsville police said Monday night preliminary investigation indicates that a customer smoking in the gunpowder section of a sporting goods store probably caused the explosion and fire that killed two persons and injured seven others Saturday.

State and federal authorities have aided in the probe of the explosion in Ziggy's Sports Shop.

The seven who were burned seriously were being cared for at hospitals in Buffalo, N.Y., and Cleveland.

I didn't want to choose, and I haven't."

Marjorie began her career three years ago as a consumer affairs director for a bank. She was promoted to products manager in the marketing division.

Tall, graceful and poised, she currently is senior associate here for Career Management Associates, where she counsels people seeking professional jobs and making career changes.

Marjorie had her bachelor's degree in English and half the credits toward a master's in theology. She never had a career and worked briefly as a congressional aide before her marriage 23 years ago.

She did extensive volunteer work, ranging from organizing charity balls to teaching high school sex education and developing curriculum for religious studies.

"I had really wanted to raise a family," she says, "and I have no regrets. I'm deeply in love with my husband."

"But four years ago my last child was four or five, and I began to feel a growing need to feel more enthusiastic. I knew I wanted a job but didn't have the vaguest idea what."

She took a career planning course at the company where she now works. She realized she had skills in research, analysis, organization and communication.

Many women acquire skills in their volunteer work but don't give themselves credit because they didn't get paid, she says.

When she first talked about going back to work, her husband, Gerald, 48, encouraged her but didn't think she was ambitious for a career.

"It wasn't easy," Marjorie says. "The first time I came home later than he did, he said we couldn't have this, that the home came first."

"At first it was difficult to grasp. After all, I didn't have to work. I had a nice life. He may have wondered, 'What more do you want? Isn't this enough?'"

"I think it may have brought up some resentment and fear in asking: 'Is she going to let a career come between us and our marriage?'"

They are adjusting, and Marjorie thinks their marriage is stronger for it.

"I feel for the first time in years that I am a peer. I absolutely glory in knowing that I am an independent person," she says.

"If I want to walk out, I can walk out. I think that's something every woman should feel."

"You wake up and you're suddenly financially independent. You don't need a husband to survive. I think our marriage is better."

Marjorie is usually up by 6 a.m., works long hours and occasional nights and weekends. She doesn't have much vacation. Gone are the days, she says, "when I was home at 6 p.m., perfumed and waiting."

Gone, also, are the days when her husband got out early from surgery and both went to New York for lunch and movies.

They don't have an active social life, maybe dinner out once a week and a rare dinner with friends.

Her eight children are used to looking after each other, and the six now at home, aged nine to 18, make a greater effort to make the household run.

But Marjorie worried at first whether she should leave them for work. At first, they greeted her plans with disbelief, she says. Now, they joke with her, saying, "Gee, Mom, nice of you to stop by. Nice to see you."

Her husband spends more time with the children and attends their school conferences.

He takes an interest in the house and new carpeting and makes sure he has clean socks.

"After all," Marjorie says, "this house isn't mine. It's ours. I'm not the chief of laundry services."

Even with a maid, Marjorie says, "the house is a mess. I've lost track of who owns what clothes."

"I'm just beginning my career. I feel ambitious," she says. "I don't know where I'll end up, but I know it will be a steady upward march. I thrive on the business world."

"My intention from the beginning was to have a career and not to give up

Top Cage Powers Keep Spots

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Canton McKinley, Delphos St. John and Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South continue to maintain firm grips this week on The Associated Press' state high school basketball poll leads.

McKinley, which has been buzzed by 33 straight opponents in the last two regular seasons, collected 290 points on the strength of its 15-0 record this winter.

Barberton and Toledo Scott, a couple of 14-0 powers, were distant title threats to the Bulldogs in the Class AAA ratings. Barberton had 246 points and Scott 214.

St. John, a former state tournament winner, pushed its record to 14-0 and earned 235 points, 44 more than runnerup Warsaw River View in the Class AA poll. River View, 14-0, won the Class AA state tournament title in 1975.

Indian Valley South, another ex-state tournament titleholder, is off to a 15-0 start and piled up 256 points to 218 for runnerup Morral Ridgedale, 14-0, in the Class A ratings.

A statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters rates Ohio teams weekly for The AP during the regular season only.

In the most formful week of this

Cleveland St. Ignatius and Columbus Linden-McKinley, the 1975 state tournament ruler, swapped spots, St. Ignatius moving seventh to sixth.

All 10 Class AA leaders were ranked the same way. Willard was third, followed by Lorain Catholic, Wellsville, Ironton, Circleville, Wheelersburg, Magnolia Sandy Valley and Columbus St. Charles.

In Class A, Minster again was third and Arcanum held onto fourth and Sandusky remained in fifth.

Lordstown, surging from ninth to sixth in Class A, made the biggest gain of the week. St. Henry, upset by New Knoxville for its first loss in 13 starts, fell to seventh, Sebring was eighth and Oak Hill held onto No. 10.

BIFF BUMGARNER

Biff Bumgarner Signs With Bowling Green

Biff Bumgarner, stellar Circleville High School athlete, has signed a letter of intent to attend Bowling Green State University on a full athletic grant-in-aid to participate in football.

Bumgarner, one of the finest all-around athletes to wear the Red and Black, will remain a member of the Falcons as long as he participates in the Mid American Conference.

However, he has until Feb. 18, when the national letter of intent comes out, to make his final decision. Up until that time he is still eligible to sign with any team outside of the Mid American Conference.

The Tiger premier running back is also a top notch basketball and baseball player for the Red and Black.

He has been All-South Central Ohio League back for two years, Central District Back of the Year and first team All-State running back in 1975. He did not participate in football as a sophomore due to a knee operation.

In his two-year span on the gridiron, he rolled up 2,777 yards in 432 carries for a fantastic 6.5 yards per carry. He was a hard-running tailback with deceptive speed who could run over people or around them as he saw fit.

He tallied 30 touchdowns in his two years on the gridiron and holds the Circleville High School single game rushing record of 285 yards in 30 carries.

He outran defensive backs and also knocked people down like a red-hot bowler going after a perfect game.

Not only was he one of the top running backs in the state, he was also rated by some coaches as the top defensive end in the SCOL.

Biff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Bumgarner, 1045 Lynwood Ave.

Bowling Green coach Dale Strahm, who signed Biff, commented "Bumgarner is one of the premier running backs in the State of Ohio and we are extremely pleased to have him in our camp."

Little Tigers Divide Cage Contests

Circleville's freshman and eighth grade basketball teams fell to Washington C. H. while the seventh graders upended the Blue Lions Monday night in cage action.

The freshmen fell by the score 31-29, the eighth graders lost 46-34 and the seventh graders won 38-29.

The Tiger freshmen, 3-7, lost their game in the last six seconds of the game when Fred Jones hit a jumper from the corner to secure the win for the Blue Lions.

Donnie Hill led Circleville's scoring with eight points, Brian Sealock had seven, Richard Elsea hooped six, Jeff Strawser netted five and Pete Harrison had three.

The Circleville eighth graders, 5-3, were led by Anthony Smith's 10 points, Danny Martin had eight, Mark Morrison netted six, Brad Willoughby hooped four, Mike Harrison and Don Holbrook each had two and Mark Harrison and Jeff Lanman had one apiece.

The seventh graders, 4-3, led at the end of each quarter 11-6, 22-10 and 31-16.

Leading the seventh grade scoring were Brad Fisher and Bob Milsted who netted 10 each, Rod Bumgarner hooped five, Tod Huffer and Jack Heeter had four each, Larry Pennington and Dallas Hettinger scored two apiece and Steve Wasmer added one.

All three teams will be back in action Thursday, the freshmen will play 4:30 at Miami Trace and the seventh and eighth graders will host Westfall with the eighth graders starting 4:30.

Three of the four sectional winners in the National Hockey League last season scored 113 points during the 80-game schedule. In the NHL, a win brings two points, a tie one point.

Maryland Rises In Cage Rankings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maryland swept past two rated teams to advance in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll, but still can't dent the "Big Four" — Indiana, Marquette, Nevada-Las Vegas and North Carolina.

The Terps moved up from seventh to fifth after defeating North Carolina State and Notre Dame in balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Indiana, sweeping all but one first-place vote, retained its top spot in the weekly poll with 1,218 points as the Hoosiers increased their record to 18-0. Undeclared Nevada-Las Vegas, 20-0, received the other first-place ballot but retained the No. 3 spot behind second-ranked Marquette, 16-1.

The Marquette Warriors piled up 1,000 points to 878 for the Rebels. North Carolina, 15-2, remained fourth with 731 points.

Washington, 17-1, retained its No. 6 ranking amidst wholesale changes after the "Big Four." Rutgers, fifth a week ago, fell to seventh despite increasing its record to 17-0.

Tennessee, 17-2, advanced one notch to eighth; UCLA, 15-3, moved from 12th to ninth, while North Carolina State, 14-3, dropped to 10th from eighth following its loss to Maryland.

The Terps' other victim, Notre Dame, 12-4, slipped one spot to 11th, followed by, in order: St. John's, 15-2; Missouri, 17-2; Alabama, 14-3; Princeton, 12-3; Cincinnati, 15-3; Western Michigan, 16-0; Centenary, 18-3; Virginia Tech, 16-3, and North Texas State, 16-2.

Western Michigan and North Texas are newcomers to the Top Twenty.

East Seen Favorite In NBA All-Star Tilt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "We're the favored ball club, but at All-Star games, I've seen some strange things happen," said Eastern Conference Coach Tom Heinsohn of Boston prior to tonight's National Basketball Association mid-season matchup at the Spectrum.

Heinsohn, whose East team was the winner last year 108-102 at Phoenix and leads the West in the series 16-9, is making his fourth appearance as the conference's coach. His club won at Chicago in 1973, but lost at Los Angeles in 1972 and at Seattle in 1974.

Richie McCabe Quits

CLEVELAND (AP) — Richie McCabe has resigned as defensive coordinator for the Cleveland Browns.

Head Coach Forrest Gregg said Monday McCabe, 41, told him he had no definite plans at this time but felt it was best for himself and the Browns to leave the coaching staff.

A Browns' spokesman said the resignation was entirely voluntary and no pressure was put on McCabe.

"The first thing you learn about your job is how important it is, how it fits in. You learn how many other people will depend on what you know. The Army's serious about your job — and it makes you serious too," according to Neil Cheney, a wheeled vehicle mechanic at Fort Lewis, Washington.

"I wanted to work on diesels. Back home, there aren't many places where you can do that. The way I would've learned — hanging around a good mechanic, picking it up — that's okay, but not as fast as I'm learning now. The Army starts you off with school. You learn the fundamentals. My instructors were good, always coming right to the point about how something works. As for on-the-job experience, one look at a motor pool will tell you the Army has enough of that for everybody."

Top Cage Powers Keep Spots

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Canton McKinley, Delphos St. John and Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South continue to maintain firm grips this week on The Associated Press' state high school basketball poll leads.

McKinley, which has buzzed by 33 straight opponents in the last two regular seasons, collected 290 points on the strength of its 15-0 record this winter.

Barberton and Toledo Scott, a couple of 14-0 powers, were distant title threats to the Bulldogs in the Class AAA ratings. Barberton had 246 points and Scott 214.

St. John, a former state tournament winner, pushed its record to 14-0 and earned 235 points, 44 more than runnerup Warsaw River View in the Class AA poll. River View, 14-0, won the Class AA state tournament title in 1975.

Indian Valley South, another ex-state tournament titleholder, is off to a 15-0 start and piled up 256 points to 218 for runnerup Morral Ridgedale, 14-0, in the Class A ratings.

All 10 Class AA leaders were ranked the same way. Willard was third, followed by Lorain Catholic, Wellsville, Ironton, Circleville, Wheelersburg, Magnolia Sandy Valley and Columbus St. Charles.

In Class A, Minster again was third and Arcanum held onto fourth and Sandusky remained in fifth.

Lordstown, surging from ninth to sixth in Class A, made the biggest gain of the week. St. Henry, upset by New Knoxville for its first loss in 13 starts, fell to seventh. Sebring was eighth and Oak Hill held onto No. 10.

Maryland Rises In Cage Rankings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maryland swept past two rated teams to advance in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll, but still can't dent the "Big Four" — Indiana, Marquette, Nevada-Las Vegas and North Carolina.

The Terps moved up from seventh to fifth after defeating North Carolina State and Notre Dame in balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Indiana, sweeping all but one first-place vote, retained its top spot in the weekly poll with 1,218 points as the Hoosiers increased their record to 18-0. Undefeated Nevada-Las Vegas, 20-0, received the other first-place ballot but retained the No. 3 spot behind second-ranked Marquette, 16-1.

The Marquette Warriors piled up 1,000 points to 878 for the Rebels. North Carolina, 15-2, remained fourth with 731 points.

Washington, 17-1, retained its No. 6 ranking amidst wholesale changes after the "Big Four." Rutgers, fifth a week ago, fell to seventh despite increasing its record to 17-0.

Tennessee, 17-2, advanced one notch to eighth; UCLA, 15-3, moved from 12th to ninth, while North Carolina State, 14-3, dropped to 10th from eighth following its loss to Maryland.

The Terps' other victim, Notre Dame, 12-4, slipped one spot to 11th, followed by, in order: St. John's, 15-2; Missouri, 17-2; Alabama, 14-3; Princeton, 12-3; Cincinnati, 15-3; Western Michigan, 16-0; Centenary, 18-3; Virginia Tech, 16-3, and North Texas State, 16-2.

East Seen Favorite In NBA All-Star Tilt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "We're the favored ball club, but at All-Star games, I've seen some strange things happen," said Eastern Conference Coach Tom Heinsohn of Boston prior to tonight's National Basketball Association mid-season matchup at the Spectrum.

Heinsohn, whose East team was the winner last year 108-102 at Phoenix and leads the West in the series 16-9, is making his fourth appearance as the conference's coach. His club won at Chicago in 1973, but lost at Los Angeles in 1972 and at Seattle in 1974.

Richie McCabe Quits

CLEVELAND (AP)—Richie McCabe has resigned as defensive coordinator for the Cleveland Browns.

Head Coach Forrest Gregg said Monday McCabe, 41, told him he had no definite plans at this time but felt it was best for himself and the Browns to leave the coaching staff.

A Browns' spokesman said the resignation was entirely voluntary and no pressure was put on McCabe.

Circleville Girls Edge Wilmington

Circleville girls cage squad held off a battling Wilmington team as the Tigers gained a 38-37 victory over the Hurricane Monday night at Circleville.

The score was tied 4-4 at the end of the first period but Circleville grabbed an 18-12 lead at halftime and held a 29-19 margin at the third period buzzer.

But, Wilmington battled back in the final canto and went ahead 37-35 with 1:30 left on the clock.

However, the Tigers were up to the challenge and a foul shot by Natalie Martin with 48 seconds left cut the gap to 37-36. With 20 seconds left on the clock, Darla Hughes calmly stepped to the charity stripe and converted both ends of a one and one to give the Tigers a 38-37 win and keep their undefeated string intact.

Martin led Circleville and all scorers with 18 points, Hughes tallied 13 and Sue Crist added seven while Sue Stevenson and Lisa Leahy both played fine floor games.

Billie Baker led the Hurricane with 11 points, Jerisue Masters added eight and Carey Baker had seven.

BIFF BUMGARNER

Biff Bumgarner Signs With Bowling Green

Biff Bumgarner, stellar Circleville High School athlete, has signed a letter of intent to attend Bowling Green State University on a full athletic grant-in-aid to participate in football.

Bumgarner, one of the finest all-around athletes to wear the Red and Black, will remain a member of the Falcons as long as he participates in the Mid American Conference.

However, he has until Feb. 18, when the national letter of intent comes out, to make his final decision. Up until that time he is still eligible to sign with any team outside of the Mid American Conference.

The Tiger premier running back is also a top notch basketball and baseball player for the Red and Black.

He has been All-South Central Ohio League back for two years, Central District Back of the Year and first team All-State running back in 1975. He did not participate in football as a sophomore due to a knee operation.

In his two-year span on the gridiron, he rolled up 2,777 yards in 432 carries for a fantastic 6.5 yards per carry. He was a hard-running tailback with deceptive speed who could run over people or around them as he saw fit.

He tallied 30 touchdowns in his two years on the gridiron and holds the Circleville High School single game rushing record of 285 yards in 30 carries.

He outran defensive backs and also knocked people down like a red-hot bowler going after a perfect game.

Not only was he one of the top running backs in the state, he was also rated by some coaches as the top defensive end in the SCOL.

Biff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Bumgarner, 1045 Lynwood Ave.

Bowling Green coach Dale Strahm, who signed Biff, commented "Bumgarner is one of the premier running backs in the State of Ohio and we are extremely pleased to have him in our camp."

A temporary restraining order obtained Jan. 12 prevented owners from taking any action at a mid-January meeting, but they heard presentations from the Toronto people and were promised by San Francisco Mayor George Moscone that a huge damage settlement will be sought if the Giants leave.

No one interested in keeping the franchise here, its home since the 1968 move from New York's Polo Grounds, has come forth with an offer matching the Toronto one, $8 million plus $5.25 million to pay off the anticipated cost of breaking the long-term Candlestick Park lease.

"We worked for 11 months to find a local buyer. There just wasn't an acceptable offer," said James Hunt, a lawyer for the Giants. "There doesn't seem to be any real alternative for the court but to let the team move."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D I B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Your Views On Horoscope Television

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Continuing good influences stimulate your ingenuity, creativity and personality. Be careful, however, not to go to extremes in anything you undertake.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Day could find you the recipient of some special recognition, perhaps a gift or bonus of some kind. Whatever, there is definite public reaction to your efforts.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Double-check plans. Work out business deals, all agreements with deliberation, ascertaining facts beforehand. Attainments now will spark more gains in the future.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You may be able to put over a good deal, conclude a profitable transaction. At least, steps toward such ends can be initiated. But don't press; maneuver cautiously.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): This day could have its sizzling moments. You will do well to maintain an even, systematic pace and procedure, no matter what pressures may be put upon you.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Certain members of the family may seem to be hypersensitive, on the brink of serious rifts. Try to smooth out their differences — but with the utmost diplomacy.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Care needed in routine activities. Make no drastic changes arbitrarily, and be especially careful about details. There's a tendency to let the mind wander when it shouldn't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A sudden flash of intuition in a romantic matter will be right on target. Follow through and recent barriers to happiness will fall.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): A good word from the right source may enable you to gain the recognition you have been waiting for. Business and financial matters are highly favored.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Avoid hasty judgments. Look more closely at all situations. There may be values not seen at a cursory glance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): An immediate follow-up on certain plans and projects recently begun will be important now, since you have the "go" sign in all worthwhile endeavors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't block opposition that could eventually be converted into support. Work diplomatically to bring it around. Some barriers aren't as impregnable as they seem.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine mind, great versatility and an outgoing personality. When halted by an obstacle along your path, you automatically circuit around another way. This is good, both for practice in agility and because you often find the best route that lies hidden from many. Getting along with co-workers is easy for you. You are intellectually inclined but can be fun at social gatherings, too. Birthdate of: George Brandes, Danish critic; Mark Hopkins, educator; Charles A. Lindbergh, famed aviator (made first transatlantic solo flight); Ida Lupino, film star.

Woody Allen's real name is Heywood.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Okay, class, let's see if you can guess what Jake Axminster does for a living. Here are your clues:

He's a good looking guy with a devilish sense of humor. He's a pretty good con man and can turn on the charm when he wants to. He has a strong sense of honor and a drive to see justice done, but he's not opposed to working outside the law if there's a good reason for it.

And he's tough. Yes sir, Jake can really swing those fists when he has to — and he'll even slug a woman if he feels she needs it. But he can be real sensitive too, you know.

If you haven't figured out the answer by now, you must not own a television set — or you own one and don't turn it on. Because Jake Axminster is a TV private eye. Just like all the others.

He debuts on NBC tonight as the hero of "City of Angels," a midseason series that is set in Los Angeles during the 1930s, when all policemen there, Jake tells us, were on the take. And the one thing the show has going for it is its location settings, including the beautiful Marion Davies estate.

But if you don't own a television set, "City of Angels" is no reason to go out and buy one, or, if you do have a tube, to turn it on.

Wayne Rogers stars in the series. He's the guy who played Alan Alda's sidekick, Trapper John, in "M.A.S.H." until this season, when he quit in a dispute with the producers.

He tended to be overshadowed by Alda in that series but in this one he's on his own. Unfortunately, he is just not appealing enough as a performer to make up for the weak material.

Tonight's episode, "The November Plan," is the first of a three-part story which supposedly is based on fact and concerns what NBC calls a "highlevel plot that threatens the entire nation." Maybe it does, although it's hard to tell. Mainly the show is just boring.

Naturally, this being a cop show, there are scenes of a guy getting kicked in the head, another man getting severely beaten if not killed (it's not clear whether he dies), and gunshots being fired at the hero. Plus there's the mandatory sassing of police officers by the private eye, such as "You'd trip on your IQ if you weren't standing on it."

Hold on, folks. There's still one more new cop show to come. ABC plans to unveil "Superstar," a spinoff of "The Streets of San Francisco," on Feb. 21.

Of considerably more interest is a program coming up on Feb. 15 entitled "Talking Back to CBS." Already taped, the 60-minute show features CBS News President Richard S. Salant, correspondents Walter Cronkite and Mike Wallace and two other network executives answering questions from southern New England community leaders about broadcast journalism, including what constitutes news, how the network gets it out and what the network sees as its responsibilities.

Salant says similar "town meetings" will be held in other parts of the country.

Malnourishment caused by calorie deficiencies and by too little protein and other nutrients afflicts an estimated 400 million to 1.5 billion of the world's poor, National Geographic says.

British Like Valentine's Day

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Are the British traditionally austere, reserved and unromantic? Not when it comes to Valentine's Day, avers Hallmark researcher Flora Mears, who specializes in old English folklore.

Valentine's Day was celebrated in England as early as the 15th century, when the custom was for the girls in a community to write their names on a slip of paper and put them in a jar. Each young man would then draw out a name and pin the paper to the sleeve of his coat. This indicated whom he would escort during the Valentine's Day festivities — and also gave rise to the expression "he wears his heart on his sleeve."

It also is believed in some part of England that the first bachelor a girl sees through her window on Valentine's Day morning is the man she will marry within a year. Another old British legend, according to Miss Mears, has it that if a girl puts a handful of bay leaves sprinkled with rose water under her pillow on Valentine's Eve, her future husband will appear in a dream.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Continuing good influences stimulate your ingenuity, creativity and personality. Be careful, however, not to go to extremes in anything you undertake.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Day could find you the recipient of some special recognition, perhaps a gift or bonus of some kind. Whatever, there is definite public reaction to your efforts.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Double-check plans. Work out business deals, all agreements with deliberation, ascertaining facts beforehand. Attainments now will spark more gains in the future.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You may be able to put over a good deal, conclude a profitable transaction. At least, steps toward such ends can be initiated. But don't press; maneuver cautiously.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): This day could have its sizzling moments. You will do well to maintain an even, systematic pace and procedure, no matter what pressures may be put upon you.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Certain members of the family may seem to be hypersensitive, on the brink of serious rifts. Try to smooth out their differences — but with the utmost diplomacy.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Care needed in routine activities. Make no drastic changes arbitrarily, and be especially careful about details. There's a tendency to let the mind wander when it shouldn't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): A sudden flash of intuition in a romantic matter will be right on target. Follow through and recent barriers to happiness will fall.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): A good word from the right source may enable you to gain the recognition you have been waiting for. Business and financial matters are highly favored.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Avoid hasty judgments. Look more closely at all situations. There may be values not seen at a cursory glance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): An immediate follow-up on certain plans and projects recently begun will be important now, since you have the "go" sign in all worthwhile endeavors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't block opposition that could eventually be converted into support. Work diplomatically to bring it around. Some barriers aren't as impregnable as they seem.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Okay, class, let's see if you can guess what Jake Axminster does for a living. Here are your clues:

He's a good looking guy with a devilish sense of humor. He's a pretty good con man and can turn on the charm when he wants to. He has a strong sense of honor and a drive to see justice done, but he's not opposed to working outside the law if there's a good reason for it. And he's tough. Yes sir, Jake can really swing those fists when he has to — and he'll even slug a woman if he feels she needs it. But he can be real sensitive too, you know.

If you haven't figured out the answer by now, you must not own a television set — or you own one and don't turn it on. Because Jake Axminster is a TV private eye. Just like all the others.

He debuts on NBC tonight as the hero of "City of Angels," a midseason series that is set in Los Angeles during the 1930s, when all policemen there, Jake tells us, were on the take. And the one thing the show has going for it is its location settings, including the beautiful Marion Davies estate.

But if you don't own a television set, "City of Angels" is no reason to go out and buy one, or, if you do have a tube, to turn it on.

Wayne Rogers stars in the series. He's the guy who played Alan Alda's sidekick, Trapper John, in "M.A.S.H." until this season, when he quit in a dispute with the producers.

He tended to be overshadowed by Alda in that series but in this one he's on his own. Unfortunately, he is just not appealing enough as a performer to make up for the weak material.

Tonight's episode, "The November Plan," is the first of a three-part story which supposedly is based on fact and concerns what NBC calls a "highlevel plot that threatens the entire nation." Maybe it does, although it's hard to tell. Mainly the show is just boring.

Naturally, this being a cop show, there are scenes of a guy getting kicked in the head, another man getting severely beaten if not killed (it's not clear whether he dies), and gunshots being fired at the hero. Plus there's the mandatory sassing of police officers by the private eye, such as "You'd trip on your IQ if you weren't standing on it."

Hold on, folks. There's still one more new cop show to come. ABC plans to unveil "Superstar," a spinoff of "The Streets of San Francisco," on Feb. 21.

Of considerably more interest is a program coming up on Feb. 15 entitled "Talking Back to CBS." Already taped, the 60-minute show features CBS News President Richard S. Salant, correspondents Walter Cronkite and Mike Wallace and two other network executives answering questions from southern New England community leaders about broadcast journalism, including what constitutes news, how the network gets it out and what the network sees as its responsibilities.

Salant says similar "town meetings" will be held in other parts of the country.

Mainnourishment caused by calorie deficiencies and by too little protein and other nutrients afflicts an estimated 400 million to 1.5 billion of the world's poor, National Geographic says.

LE Board Discusses Finances, Notes Delay In Funding

Finance was among the topics on the agenda before the Logan Elm Board of Education Monday night. The board approved an advanced draw in the amount of $125,000 and took action to ratify the clerk's borrowing $240,000 last month.

Local superintendent John Henn advised the board that he had talked to the county treasurer and had been told the real estate tax payments had been extended to March 20, due to reappraisal and data processing. This means that the tax statements will not be mailed to the property owners until

Feb. 10, and the school money will be delayed.

Representatives from the Booster Club were present at the meeting to give the board plans for a concession stand on the football field.

In action regarding personnel, the board employed Patricia Humphrey as a Title I reading teacher for the remainder of the year. Ms. Humphrey has a bachelor of science degree from Ohio University and nine years' experience.

Approval was also given for an employee to attend the "Educational Implications of Title IX Workshop."

The board adopted the school calendar for the 1976-77 school year with the first day being Aug. 31. The last day of school for students will be June 3 and for teachers, June 6. The calendar also provides for one day off for the Pumpkin Show and the Friday of that week off for the Central Ohio Teachers Association meeting. May 30 was also established as the commencement date for the class of 1976.

A vocational agriculture field trip to Louisville, Ky. for Feb. 11-14 was approved. The purchases of a record player for the music department and a meat slicer for the school cafeteria were also approved during the meeting.

Opal Sims, school psychologist and coordinator, reported to the board on the curriculum council. The council meets four times a year. The official high school curriculum was also presented to the board and Henn advised the members that registration for next year's classes will start in the near future.

Mrs. Sims also reported on the Ohio Handicapped Identification Operation which has to do with the finding of handicapped students not presently served by the public school.

Henn also advised the board that he was sending out the teacher survey forms in the near future to see which teachers in the district are planning to return next year.

The meeting closed with several reports including one from the gas company which stated that the district had been within its allocation so far this winter. Another report to the board advised of a 42 per cent increase in the Blue Cross and Blue Shield rates.

The board will meet again in regular session on March 1 at 8 p.m.

Snow Buries Atlantic Coast

By ROBERT WELLER
Associated Press Writer

Mother Nature turned tables on the Atlantic Coast, dumping 14 inches of snow as far south as North Carolina while heavy rain fell on Maine. Several deaths were blamed on the storm.

The storm Monday was accompanied by strong winds, gusting up to 70 miles per hour in many parts of the Northeast, turning roads into something akin to carnival bumper-car rides, closing schools and bringing power outages throughout the region from downed power lines.

The National Weather Service said late Monday that the storm was moving into Canada but was still being felt in New York and New England. Travel advisories remained in effect for Vermont and northeast New York.

Temperatures were expected to approach zero overnight in the Northeast — or 40 to 50 below when the chill factor from the strong winds are taken into account.

A separate storm spread snow from Missouri into Kentucky and Tennessee overnight, and travelers' advisories were out for Kentucky, Tennessee and the southern portions of Illinois and Indiana. Some snow accumulations also were expected in southern Ohio. Still farther west, a winter storm threatened to bring snow to Montana, the Dakotas and northern Minnesota.

The rain in Maine, made worse by wind-driven high tides, brought floodwaters into downtown Bangor — forcing several motorists to swim to safety from their cars.

Temperatures dropped sharply later in the day, bringing on some light snow. And authorities said the waters of the Penobscot and Kenduskeag rivers in Maine began receding, but not before causing damage that would run into the millions.

In Westmoreland, N.Y., two firemen suffered heart attacks while battling a fire. One, Leonard Brown, 60, died before snowbound ambulances — traveling on a path dug out by snowplows — could reach him. The other fireman was reported in serious condition.

In Brewster, N.Y., Steven Blaney, 43, foreman of the village public works department, died of a heart attack while driving a snow plow.

Police also blamed the weather for the death of a mailman, Wallace Evans, 53, killed in a collision on slippery roads in Milford, Conn.

The storm's strong winds swept the 362-foot Japanese freighter Musashina Maru hard aground on a rocky beach near Searsport, Maine. Officials said the ship was taking on water but that its crew of 22 was in no immediate danger.

Efforts to remove the ship weren't immediately successful. A Coast Guard spokesman said, "She's a good ship, and both bottoms weren't pierced. We hope to get her off in the end." The ship had arrived in Searsport to take on a cargo of frozen french fried potatoes from northern Maine.

Meanwhile, in the Midwest, temperatures in Northern Illinois plunged to the coldest they've been this winter, dropping to 22 below in Rockford. Chicago registered 1 below. Warmer weather was expected today, but possibly with new snow.

Punxsutawney Phil, the weatherman-ground hog of that Pennsylvania town, promised more of the same. Peeking out of his burrow Monday, he reportedly saw his shadow, which legend says means six more weeks of winter.

SOUTH BLOOMFIELD

South Bloomfield councilmen purchased a used 1974 model Ohio State Patrol car to replace the village cruiser, which was destroyed in a traffic accident last week.

An ordinance was passed creating a one-way alley in the village. The alley, the westbound intersecting link between route 23 and Union St., will allow traffic to pass only towards Union St.

Councilmen felt that the action would help alleviate a bad traffic problem there.

The environmental impact study which is geared towards a village park is almost complete, councilmen learned. It is apparently a requirement of the HUD program, which provided the funds for creation of the park.

Councilmen are in the process of acquiring 10 acres of land within the village as a park site.

In other business, Raney Brady, chairman of the Safety Committee, told council that his committee located five potential problems in the village that should be corrected. Property owners will be notified.

It was also learned that Marshall Jack Widdig would be attending the police officers training school sponsored by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

MASTER CAREY

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Carey (Susan Cundiff) 1070 Sunshine Drive, are the parents of an 8-pound 10-ounce son born 11:39 a.m. Jan. 31 in Berger Hospital.

Faulty Furnace Causes Smoke

A faulty furnace motor caused extensive smoke in the home of Dr. Charles T. Grattidge, Laurelville. Dr. Grattidge's grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Charles West, were staying at the house at the time and awoke at 1:50 a.m. this morning from the smoke fumes. They called the Laurelville Fire Department.

Firemen used a smoke ejector to rid the house of smoke and removed the furnace motor. They were on the scene for two hours making emergency repairs to the furnace since the outside temperature was eight degrees.
